In the exploded view or exploded projection, which is commonly used in engineering diagrams and assembly instructions, we see all the elements pulled apart yet held in place, to show how the wheel is put together. Yet the pieces of the wheel more distant from us are not smaller in accordance with one-point perspective. There is no horizon line or vanishing point. Thomas Lamarre, The Anime Machine: A Media Theory of Animation

As most of you should know by now, southeast China was recently hit by a major earthquake. Thousands were injured and killed by the natural catastrophe. Hiroshi Fujiwara reports that they will probably be releasing a Fragment Design x Nike Tennis Classic “Panda” pack, which will be auctioned off and proceeds will be donated to the victims of the earthquake. The panda was chosen as the main inspiration for the pack, as it stands for China and more importantly one of the main panda regions of China has been hit by the earthquake. This is a similar action to the auction held for Niigata. At the time they had made a pack of HTM Air Force 1’s. There is not set date yet for the auction as the incident just happened, nevertheless Fujiwara already gives us a first look at the sneakers. This is definitely a great initiative that you should support as much as possible!

A panda whose “get-fit & save-the-day” boot camp story wobbles short of the mark. A panda who is out of shape and untrained, and his only real asset is his unshakable hopefulness and charm. A panda who was training with dumplings. A panda who uses his extra body-surface-area to effectively vanquish his foe. A panda who did the job very well. A panda who commits acts of horrible violence in this disturbing not-for-kids movie. A panda who I found a little aggressive for a small child. A panda who, to my mind represents cartoon violence. A panda who belly-slams Wall-E and one of Wall-E’s eye-lenses pops loose. Hurray for panda! A secular panda whose story reflects biblical truth. A panda who surprised everyone, including himself, on what he could achieve if he set his mind to it. A panda who teaches kids they can excel to whatever their will takes them if they learn discipline, sacrifice, compassion, patience, toil and respect. A panda who engages in some traditional spiritually enlightening self-discovery. A panda who gives the message regarding inner strength and belief in oneself, and action. A cartoon panda who is essentially Chris Farley in Beverly Hills Ninja. A panda who resembles Luke Skywalker having to learn the ways of the Force to defeat Darth Wader. A fighting panda bear based on Jack Black. A panda who is obviously based “largely” (no pun intended) on Jack Black’s actual character. A panda who, unfortunately does not give Jack Black any room to do his thing in this movie. A panda who tells us God Has Chosen You (2 Thessalonians 2:13-15) “God has chosen you from the beginning for salvation through sanctification by the Spirit and faith in the truth. And it was for this that He called you through our gospel that you may gain the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ." A panda with hilariously quivering “Scrat Eyes.” A panda whose fur is as realistic as it would be in a non-animated movie. A computer-animated and fully anthropomorphized panda.

A clumsy, overweight panda who dreams of becoming a kung fu master like China’s revered “furious five,” but instead seems destined to follow in the footsteps of his father and grandfather in the restaurant business. A panda who works in his family’s noodle shop while daydreaming about becoming a Kung Fu master. A tubby panda who dreams of kung fu “awesomeness” but whose career prospects boil down to inheriting his father’s noodle stand. A panda who helps his father at a noodle restaurant but his dream is to become a Kung Fu Master. A panda whose father is inexplicably – a goose. A panda who dreams of kung fu madness but who works in his father’s (who happens to be a goose – classic) noodle shop. A rotund restaurant worker panda whom the village elders improbably designate as the warrior chosen to defend their homes against the prophesied return of a fearsome fighter. A giant panda who dreams of being the most “awesomely awesome” Kung-Fu master that ever walked the planet. A panda who I expected him to execute some winning maneuver culled from his background balancing hot dishes of noodles, serving noodles every day in his father’s noodle shop – but that never happens. A lazy, irreverent slacker panda who is the biggest fan of Kung Fu around. A panda who’s not the most likely candidate for Dragon Warrior. A clumsy, hungry panda who can’t stop eating or goofing around long enough to complete his training. A panda whose fighting techniques are strictly ad hoc. A panda who is a sweet character audiences will instantly take to. A panda who is both cuddly and funny – what more could you want (well that suits me in a man, so I’m sold)?! An indolent cartoon panda. An appealing schnook of a panda. A beloved Kung Fu-practicing panda. A panda who was “pleasant,” “agreeable,” “warm,” etc. A fat panda who you get to see kicking some butt. A fat Panda who kicks butt and earns my respect and he will yours too. A panda hero. A panda who wins support through the sheer force of his likeable personality (and his secret noodle soup). A Panda Bear who keeps on fighting no matter what the others think of him. A panda who is a flawed character, one that a lot of people can relate to because he dreams, he’s funny, and he can laugh at himself. A furry, funny and cute big panda. A chubby panda. A self-deprecating, pudgy panda. A panda who shows chubby kids they may not be the ideal, but they're certainly no damaged goods. A panda who's a great role model for kids who are not slim and athletic. A panda whose power is an admixture of sloth and gluttony. A panda who is geared to please the fattest, laziest youth ever to have lived on earth. But by the accident, he became a panda that will rescue the world.

A panda who dreams of escaping his humdrum life and becoming a kung fu master. A giant panda who dreams of becoming a kung fu master. A panda who finds himself elevated from noodle cook to kung fu master. A rotund panda who slaves over noodles in the family restaurant but yearns to be a kung-fu master. A panda who seems destined to serve noodles for the rest of his life until he is picked by a kung fu master as the Dragon Warrior. A panda who dreams of someday becoming a Kung Fu master, but instead seems destined to spend his life working at the family noodle shop. A panda who dreams of being a kung fu fighter, but his reality is working at his dad's noodle shop. A panda who dreams of breaking out of his father's soup kitchen (not what it sounds like) and becoming a master of kung fu. A noodle-selling panda bear who dreams of Kung Fu fame but remains stuck in a career through questionable genetic default. A panda who's a waiter at a noodle restaurant, whose father also happens to be the son of a duck. A panda who daydreams of being a kung fu fighter while slinging noodles at his dad's noodle shop somewhere in an ancient China where talking, anthropomorphic animals once roamed. A panda who lives in wonderland xD A rambunctious panda who is frustrated that his life has settled in the family business. A panda who dreams of being something greater than his food-loving lazy self. A panda who must overcome the self-imposed insecurities, harness an inner force, and discover that in his greatest weakness, he can be the strongest. A panda whose kung fu dexterity is honed by his hunger for dumplings. A panda who was being influenced by food in his training. A panda who is demeaning to overweight people. A panda who got slapped onto a bunch of Kelloggs snack and breakfast food. A panda who more or less just bumbles his way into beating the bad guy, falling down the hill, sitting on him (another fat joke), and being impossible to actually hurt because ... wait for it ... he's fat! A panda who promotes obesity and eating too much. A panda who’s seen gnoshing on some snacks while the master glares disapprovingly. A cartoon panda who is far enough from reality that kids are not going to walk away from watching this pudgy bear and go on to either emulate his food gobbling or make fun of heftier people in real life. A panda who will turn kids on to asian cuisine, which in many ways is far healthier than American cuisine. A panda who found his way to eat the monkey cookies (hmmm that didn’t come out right) and everyone laughed during the training with the food sequence. A fat panda getting tired of running up stairs/falling.

The fact that it’s about a Panda Bear, should have told you this is not a serious Kung Fu movie. A panda who can fall hundreds of feet without getting hurt .. it kinda takes the “danger” out of the action. A panda who is not good for children. My son is four and I don’t like him hearing characters call other characters names like “idiot,” which this panda does. A panda whose smart aleck lines and attitude are the kinds of things that DO creep into the minds and hearts of kids, creating those 12-and-under cynical back-talkers. A panda who is mind-garbage for children. A panda who had a great father-son relationship with his dad. A panda who loved his dad, treated him with respect, even when he disagreed with him, it was respectful and polite. A panda who was like a big, obnoxious commercial for stuffed animals and video games. One kid nearby was giggling like a mental patient when the panda ate the cookies. A panda whose fight scenes were CRAZY! I’m going to try them at home. A panda whose nerdity I really connected with. A panda who is a most endearing and sincere character. A panda whose character is a little out-of-the-box and a bit thin. A panda who is pretty damn cute. A panda with a beautiful cowlick on top of his head! A panda who is heartfelt, very funny, and the action is hot. A panda who felt very honest and vulnerable. A panda who has a lot of appeal, I couldn’t stop looking at him, his face, or his motion. A panda who apearly and_vs, ,e_ action is hot. A panda who bordered on annoying at times. a panda who is nice. damn funny pss .. i think u’ll like it. A panda who they kept saying its really nice but no leh, doesnt appeal to me leh. plus i think the panda looks boring – not cute at all one. The movie captures this panda’s soulfulness as well as his infuriating doltishness. Anyone bitching about this panda being light on character is delusional. A panda who is ... LEGENDARILY AWESOME! A panda character who is so awesome and so famous kids keep remembering his name the sec-
A panda who has China swarming with knockoffs. I haven’t been able to track down one decent plush of this panda. A panda who witnesses the murder of his parents in a bamboo alley, spends his formative years learning the art of Kung Fu, learns the identity of the murderer and mauls him terribly. A panda who adds spice to this genre of character. A panda that could be so funny. A panda with a rich imagination. A husky panda voiced with lots of ooo-waaaaahhh goofiness. A huggable panda. A big, plush funball panda. A panda who is fat and cuddly. A panda who is cute and has nice teeth. A panda who needs all the help he can get. 你很像熊貓喔！

A panda who doesn’t fit the conventional mold of a Dragon Master – he’s overweight, uncoordinated, and scared – yet by embracing his uniqueness, he finds a way to overcome all these things. A panda who is stuck between insecure misfit and overconfident bounder. A panda who is endearing to the audience for his pure love, energy and belief in what he wants to do. A panda whose main asset is his indestructibility. An out-of-shape panda with an eating disorder and the attention span of a gnat. A rotund panda dreamer who longs to be a notorious martial arts master. He’s a panda and he does kung fu. A pudgy young panda. A big, fat, flabby Panda. A fat, lazy panda. A clumsy, overweight panda. A portly and inelegant panda. A portly kung fu loving Panda. A panda whose physique, that doesn’t bode well. A corpulent panda Karate Kid on the way to fulfilling his destiny as a warrior in ancient China. A clumsy and clownish tubby furry panda who is less likely to amuse than deepen already existing anxiety and shame around the literal and “figureative” widespread small fry big appetite eating issues. A panda who is rotund and out of shape, barely
A panda whose skills involve throwing his weight around and diving after edible scents, when not falling through floors and drowning his body image self-loathing sorrows in emotional eating. A panda who embraced his rotund build. A panda who likes to turn to comfort food when life in his dad’s noodle shop gets too boring for him. An overweight panda kung fu master. A fucking panda, after all. A cartoon panda version of kicking and punching mayhem. A panda who is Oh, Mr. Butt Kicker. A cartoon panda bear that learns kung-fu because of his love of food, while the song “Kung-Fu Fighting” plays in the background. The unlikely eponymous panda has dreams as big as his considerable girth all centering on a longing to be a kung fu fighter of legendary achievement. A fat panda who dreams of martial arts glory.

A chubby, lazy panda who worships the famous kung-fu artists, but can only dream of learning kung-fu himself. A panda who is chosen as the dragon warrior and placed under the tutelage of the decidedly non-plussed master. A panda who isn’t a natural Kung Fu fighter. A panda who teaches about the character traits that are so important in kung fu. Kung fu isn’t just about fighting; it’s about responsibility, and building character. A panda who has an ingenious way of getting every Kung Fu move exactly wrong, yet imbuing it with his own enthusiastic energy. A panda who is too fat to be agile or fast enough to be a Kung Fu Master. A panda who punches, chops, and belly-slams his way through hordes of enemies. A panda who will never fulfill his destiny, nor you yours until you let go of the illusion of control. A panda with a Buddhist flavor but secular. I wasn’t terrified that some flabby panda was going to break into my home and beat the holy crap out of me. A panda who has a very original style. A panda whose style would probably not be very effective. Candidly admit defeat / head 失る down. A panda who is also quite the glutton for punishment. A Panda in an embarrassing pose. A frisky martial arts panda. A big, lazy, kung fu-obsessed panda. A corpulent Asian cousin of Pooh Bear. A panda living in a small village in China. A panda in ancient China who becomes an unlikely martial-arts hero. A panda who will look good on a Burger King glass. A panda who proves China the Land a the Panda. A panda who reminded me of all the great things about China: the history, the culture, the scenery and landscapes, martial arts, the animals, the food even! A panda who is relatively harmless. A Panda important enough that a national political body should be debating it. A Chinese panda. A panda who is under serious discussion by the CPPCC. A panda who has peaked the interest of the Chinese People’s Political Consultative Committee. I loooove Pandal panda / ポー（pageラヤBlue Love Clinic Clinic）

A big lovable panda bear who is the just-believe-in-yourself hero on a journey of self-discovery. A panda who is determined, and he doesn’t quit. A panda who used to be lazy, uninspired and unhappy, but when he found his calling and learned to believe in himself, he saw that he didn’t have to become someone else—or what everyone “expected” the dragon warrior to be—he just had to discover his own unique strengths. A panda who seemingly promotes an atheistic, there-is-nothing-but-you humanism. A panda with Taoist themes. A panda who is the laziest animals in all of the Valley of Peace, but unwittingly becomes the chosen one when enemies threaten their way of life. A panda who dreams of glorious triumphs, in which onlookers were “blinded due to overexposure to pure awesomeness.” A panda who is fuglier than a dog’s breakfast and duller than oatmeal. A panda whose crummy attitude is like biting into a fortune cookie full of rotten meat. A panda who seemingly everyone in the blogosphere shat upon based on just the movie’s trailer, which is fucking ridiculous c’mon people. A panda whose gut jiggling to punches and kicks was just right not too real, but not too cartoony as well. A panda who is your average, ordinary, “nobody” becoming the hero that he never thought he could be. A clumsy panda who is a rabid armchair kung fu fan. A panda who is slavish in his devotion to dumplings. A panda who dazzles with humor and martial arts panache. A panda who kicks your mom’s ass hahaha. A paunchy panda who becomes a zealous kung fu fighter. A panda who evolves into something great. A fat panda who dreams of being a Kung Fu warrior. What makes this panda an unlikely warrior is in his Panda genes. A panda who spends his life working with his feathered, and obviously not genetically-related father making and selling noodles while action figures of his favorite warriors adorn his window sill.
misunderstanding adoptive father. The clumsy panda son of a goose who runs a noodle shop – I don’t believe the movie ever explains why a panda should have been sired by a goose. A rambunctious panda dreamer who wants to be a karate superstar, but seems destined to take over his father’s soup shop (and, his father is a duck, which seems kind of weird that a duck would produce a panda offspring, maybe the wild kingdom is wilder than we ever imagined). And his father is a goose (affectionately voiced by James Hong), a fact this panda doesn’t quite pick up on – but we do, and it lends their relationship a comic poignancy. A young panda who works in his father’s noodle shop by day, and dreams his Kung Fu fantasies by night. A slacker panda who works in his father’s soup restaurant in the “Valley of Peace” while dreaming of kung fu glory. A roly-poly panda named Po with martial-arts dreams and a day job at his dad’s (James Hong) noodle shop. A panda kung fu fan whose life is limited by his endless work in his father’s noodle restaurant. A panda who works in the noodle restaurant owned and operated by his father, Ping, but dreams of being a kung fu master, despite his own size and clumsiness. A chubby, clumsy panda who is being groomed by his father (James Hong) to take over the family noodle shop but secretly dreams of being a kung-fu warrior. A fun-loving, introspective and rotund panda bear named Po who works his father’s (James Hong) noodle shop while dreaming about living through martial adventures. A lumpy panda bear working at his father’s noodle shop in China’s Valley of Peace. A cute Panda with a gut the size of the moon whose hum-drum life is spent making noodles for the Chinese locals with his adoptive father, Mr. Ping (James Hong). A panda who dwarfs his ostensible father, the noodle-selling duck Mr. Ping (the great, great, great James Hong). A panda who works in a noodle shop run by his noodles-are-in-our-blood father, who happens to be a crane. (I love how this is never explained.) A panda who is big and clumsy, effectively a modern pop-culture nerd transplanted into ancient time. But he’s very endearing, almost adorable, one can’t help but like him. A giant panda. A giant ass panda. 好一隻「功夫 熊貓」！ A fat panda who is up there in quality. A lazy, irreverent slacker panda who is the biggest fan of Kung Fu around. A panda who puts his heart – and his girth – into the task, and finds that his greatest weaknesses turn out to be his greatest strengths. 星期二社課，是電影欣賞的功夫熊貓，要先說典中的表現很不錯。 never be able to surpass the leopard. A Panda addressed as “Master.” A panda who was sort of cute, but the whole talking, wacky animals premise is so old it’s dead and needs to be buried. A panda who has moments of over-indulgence, but in general is a sweet likable character, that you really do want to root for. A cartoon panda who does kung fu with the slacker wit and squeezable charm of Jack Black. A panda who, first off, he’s the main character and second, HE’S VOICED BY JACK BLACK!!!!! A panda who was cool too although there were a couple of jackisms that made me pull out of believing the story. A panda who goes “skedoosh” which IS a pop culture self reference to Jack Black. I wished this panda was a bit less, well, Jack Black and a bit more panda. A panda who was lackluster in some places. teh panda rocks my socks. Panda is in my socks. Pandaaa. Pandaa. A panda he’s very likable. The 4-year-old client behind me told his mom, “Don’t worry ... Panda’s trained ... he’s gonna eat the tiger.” A panda who is my favorite super kung fu panda ;D A panda who just made that funny face when the tigress was talking about her life and tai long life that was funny ;D A panda who gets acupuncture, and he makes a VERY funny face. Panda 也太可愛了吧 ;D I love panda! panda is so cute cute cute! Do you love panda? very ............... very ............... cute ... I like panda xD i like the panda ;P he is stupid but when it comes for fighting hes the best then. This panda was the bestest ever! Po ... po po po po po pooooonoo po ... Panda poo! A panda who is awkward, unsure, full of lacking, and the most unlikely of heroes. altho he seen to be sort of stupid he still gives a lsn to those four masters!! Never give up and the panda always beleived in himself. I like the panda sooo much ;) Po is a little bit stupid, but i like the way that he was studying to fight – with biscuits ;D Don’t get me wrong, but the first time I heard about Kung fu Panda, all I thought was it’s just another animated movie. I didn’t understand why my cousin obsessed about this panda movie. She had set her ringtone and wallpaper with Kung fu Panda’s stuff! I thought it to be childish. But now, after me watching it, I want to set my wallpaper as this Panda too. I understand now. The obsession, the love, the whole hooplah around the panda movie. I get it. Totally. Let me tell you, this is not just any animated movie. It’s an inspiration beyond thought. It shows a path where there isn’t any. The concept, along with the animation works, dialogs and voices, is just so ... beyond any word describable. I might be just carried away with the movie. But you have to watch this movie to actually feel what I feel right now. Now, despite having no children, I want to go watch Kung Fu Panda. Mayumi: the panda has grown on me, I’ll admit. My kid’s simple questions have prompted deeper exegeses into the meaning of panda. The panda’s name Po strikes me as a bit boring for a character who is pretty memorable. A few days ago, I watched Kungfu Panda. I’ll have to rent Kungfu Panda now. It’s really good, ten points, five stars, fucking awesome, A+ strongly recommended. Then I decided out of duty as an animation fan that I should rent Kung Fu Panda. In any case, I’m telling you to go rent Kung Fu Panda this weekend.

What’s a panda to do when his dreams of kung-fu awesomeness awake to the cold reality of noodle-making? This large awkward Panda who makes noodle soup just like his father, who is actually a goose. Clumsy, overweight Po (Jack Black) dreams of becoming a kung fu master like China’s revered “furious five,” but instead seems destined to follow in the footsteps of his father and grandfather in the restaurant business. A panda, a noodle maker’s son (more like adopted son), who dreams of becoming a great Kung fu star. But his reality shows him making and serving noodles and if he does well one day he will earn the right to know the secret ingredient of the “secret ingredient” soup from his father. A fat panda who dreams of becoming a kung fu master while his well-meaning father, Mr. Ping, is unwavering in his vision of his son’s destiny as a hallowed noodle cook. A panda who spends his time toiling in his father’s noodle shop, and fantasizing about becoming a kung fu master like his idols, the Furious Five. A panda who finds himself elevated from noodle cook to kung fu master. A panda who dreams of Kung Fu glory alongside his idols, the Furious Five, who train inside the misty palace grounds above the store. A panda who isn’t up to the challenge at first. 笑料的主要來自主角的矛盾，即是以熊貓的笨重體型，去做出各種輕巧的功夫動作。So, OK, it’s predictable that the panda will find a way to perfect Kung Fu and defeat his enemy. If anything, the panda represented the Chinese people
This is the story of a normal Panda who became a legend. An overweight panda having fantasies about one day becoming a Kung Fu master. A panda and friends in a quest to become the ultimate fighting champion. A fat, lazy panda that works in his dad’s noodle shop while secretly dreaming of being a Kung Fu master. A panda who is the laziest of all the animals in the Valley of Peace, but unwittingly becomes the chosen one when enemies threaten his way of life. A panda who is chosen to fulfill an ancient prophecy and become the Dragon Warrior in order to save the Valley of Peace from an evil snow leopard. A lazy panda who idolises the Furious Five kung fu champions. A panda who must overcome his own fears, the annoyance of the peevish Master Shifu and the resentment of the Furious Five. A panda who is the latest student at a martial arts dojo that trains warriors for epic battles. A panda who must face some new terror that has emerged, despite his propensity for being lazy and not having any of the discipline or skills exemplified by his more studious fellow students. A panda who is quite a fan of the martial arts, but untrained enthusiasm and pudgy naivete aren’t going to be enough to defeat Tai Lung. A panda who is an unconventional student to say the least, hilarity reigns as Shifu tries desperately to make him into some semblance of a kung fu warrior. A panda who, when a series of accidental events brings him to the master of the five and he is named “The Dragon Master” he can’t exactly comprehend what is happening. A panda who is trained in the martial arts. A panda who is untrained in the martial arts. A PANDA WHO KICKS SOME SERIOUS ASS. A bumbling Chinese panda. A panda who was living in China yet had an American accent, plus all of the asians were minor characters. A panda who is HILARIOUS, but at the same time so sweet. A panda with dreams of becoming a kung fu master – much like his heroes, the Furious Five, a kung fu team made up of Crane, Mantis, Viper, Monkey and Tigress – but fears he may be stuck as a noodle merchant for the rest of his life. A clumsy panda who becomes The One (aka Dragon Warrior) destined to defeat a fearful foe. A noodle eating lazy panda. A panda who was the underdog that comes and saves the day. A panda who smacks a fresh coat of paint on the archetypal martial arts tale of the underdog who learns self-discipline by believing in himself to become his own master and save the day. Fat panda that he is, nobody really believes that he could be the greatest warrior of all times but it turns out he is. A panda who managed to single-handedly defeat a ferocious snow leopard kung fu master. A bumbling panda who can barely lift a punch against a punching bag. A panda whose ineptitude threatens the safety of the entire community. A panda who wasn’t even doing kung fu but just flipping around at speeds the human eye can’t register. So there’s just a bunch of blurry crap going on that bears no resemblance to kung fu. A panda who just magically got it after a day or 2. What a great message. Also, there is more to kung fu than beating another person. The hitch is, this panda is a huge and clumsy beast. He can’t possibly be expected to learn kung fu! A panda who becomes the dragon warrior, receiving the scroll he reads it and to his disappointment all he sees is his own reflection. A panda whose ineptitude is highlighted when a punching bag comes back to hit him, sending him flying across the room. A panda who was at least good at making noodles. A panda who tai-lung hittin n he ws lafin. A big fat Panda who learns how to do Kung Fu in the aptly titled “Kung Fu Panda.” A panda who can now say, “I know Kung-Fu.”

An overweight panda who has been chosen to be the new Kung Fu Master and fight the bad guy. A panda whose dreams of kung fu awesomeness awake to the cold reality of noodle-making. What’s a panda to do when his dreams of kung-fu awesomeness awake to the cold reality of noodle-making? Go back to sleep, I guess. In this story it is very natural that a panda sells noodles, and in the dream he could be a martial arts panda. Gao Qiang, 打遍天下无敌手。但是实际生活中他只是一个卖面条的孩子，每天必须在自己家中的面店帮忙，一旦仙人自感自己累世的岁月不长。然而，他的现实生活就和一只鸭子被逼着去帮一个面条店一样。孩子们每天面临着面条店的惨痛生活。一个生活在略早于中国的年代。一个生活在那片被稚气豚、鹅、兔子等非人类动物组成的土地上的土地。一个生活在非身份的中国土地上。一个生活在略早于中国的年代。一个生活在那片被稚气豚、鹅、兔子等非人类动物组成的土地上的土地。一个生活在非身份的中国土地上。一个生活在略早于中国的年代。一个生活在那片被稚气豚、鹅、兔子等非人类动物组成的土地上的土地。一个生活在非身份的中国土地上。 living in a small Chinese village, who gets his kicks playing with action figures in his bedroom. A panda kung fu hero in an anthropomorphic China. A panda who wants to be a hero. A blubbery panda who has grandeur fancies of being part of an elite fighting team. A corpulent panda struggling to become a martial arts warrior. A chubby underachieving panda seeking martial arts greatness. A big-hearted but clumsy, kung fu-loving panda who lacks athletic skills. A klutzy and easily distracted panda. An ungainly, slothful panda. A soft-headed and soft-bellied panda. A panda who’s lazy, and has no demonstrable talent or ability. A panda who knows his shortcomings and realizes that he isn’t a traditional martial-arts hero. A flawed panda, one that a lot of people can relate to because he dreams, he’s funny, and he can laugh at himself. A clown-eyed, sheepishly neurotic, roly-poly panda of no visible athletic ability who trains to become a lightning-limbed martial-arts master. A panda who transcends his portly frame and meager origins. A panda who is trying to transform his life from being a lazy slob to a master of Kung Fu. A fat panda who dreams about joining the famed kung fu warriors of his time, but doesn’t actually have the physical prowess to make that dream a reality. A panda who is an emotional eater. A panda who reveals how inadequate he feels and how ashamed he is of that inadequacy. A pudgy panda. An overweight, clumsy, nervous and compulsive-eating panda who’s as much a gourmand for kung fu as he clearly is for kung pao chicken. A roly-poly panda who loves kung-fu fighting, but not as much as he loves steamed dumplings and fat, lush peaches. A pot-bellied panda. A panda who is overweight and lazy, which is probably due to his being a panda. A soft, sweet-natured cuddly panda. A panda who is disparaged, dismissed and, eventually, triumphant. An enthusiastic kung fu groupie of a panda. A panda who can take a licking, sure. A panda with a yearning to unleash some kung fu. A panda stuck in his role as the son of a popular noodle chef. A big, cuddly panda bear who dreams of kung fu glory while his devoted dad (voiced with loving cluelessness by James Hong) grooms him for a life in the family noodle restaurant. A roley-poly panda named Po who dreams of becoming a kung fu master while slinging noodles for his father’s restaurant. A panda who serves as an inept waiter in the noodle diner of his father, a goose named Ping (James Hong). A clumsy, roly-poly panda who’s expected to inherit the noodle-restaurant business that’s run by his father, Mr. Ping (the voice of veteran character actor James Hong). A rotund noodle-stand worker panda. A buffoonish noodle-selling panda. A panda who is destined for a life of lo mein. 熊貓推來到麵條雖然已經乾巴巴冷冰冰,也被搶購一空,鴨子店長大喜過望。 A panda who is not a born soup bear; he aspires to kung fu mastery. 一個胖墩墩傻乎乎的熊貓也想成為龍戰士,但他首先要賣麵條。 A panda who works in his father's noodle shop. For reasons not quite clear, his father is a bird (James Hong). A panda who is something of a black sheep within his family. A panda who feels that his heart is not in carrying on the noodle-making business of his narrow-minded goose father Mr. Ping (James Hong). A Chinese noodle shop worker panda whose consuming passion is kung fu. A giant panda in a rural village in ancient China, who works in the family noodle business but dreams – in spite of his obvious lack of promise – of kung-fu awesomeness. A panda who spends his days fantasizing about kicking and chopping his way to glory, even as he labors in his father’s Chinese noodle shop. A panda adopted to a family of Chinese cooks and who is expected to carry on the family business. A panda who mans the street cart (or is it pandas the street cart?) and helps his quacking dad serve lunch for the townsfolk, all the while fantasizing about chopping and socking his way through an army of ninjas. A lazy panda working at his family noodle shop who dreams of being a martial arts master. A lazy panda whose elaborate dream life is far more exciting than his servitude with his father, running a noodle shop amid the bustle of an ersatz feudal China. A chubby restaurant worker whom the village wise men improbably designate as the warrior chosen to defend their homes against the prophesied return of a fearsome fighter (Ian McShane). A fat, gluttonous panda who labors joylessly in his father’s noodle shop (his dad is a goose, for some reason) while obsessing over the world of kung fu. A panda who wants to be a kung fu master but is stuck instead working at the noodle shop run by his father, a tender-hearted goose (James Hong) whose real relationship to Po is left unexplained (a nicely humorous touch). The rolypoly, goofball panda son of a noodle-making mallard. How Ping, apparently a stork or other billed member of the avian family, fathered a panda is a mystery, not least to Po, but then the movie is filled with a wide variety of creatures who don’t much seem to notice their differences. The panda’s father is a goose. This is not explained. Despite the fact his dad is a goose, Po has apparently never clued in that they might not be biologically simpatico. His father is a duck for reasons that become a consistently amusing running joke. How can a panda bear the progeny of a duck?
Dad’s a goose, a fact that none of the other critters seems to find surprising, so I guess there’s no reason for us to. A panda who is the only son of a goose who owns a noodle shop (don’t ask). Po is a panda and Ping is a goose, but the former seems to have no idea that he might have been, say, adopted.

Kawaii panda. ^____^
A panda martial-arts geek.
An animated panda bear.

A fat, lazy giant panda who lives in a Chinese village and dreams of being a martial-arts hero. Super funny ^^ – 功夫足球 Do not waste the Kung Fu Panda. The panda with that cuddly belly who is such an adorable character. An overweight panda and kung-fu enthusiast. An overweight Panda whose lifelong dream is to be a master at kung fu and save China. A pot-bellied, courage-free slacker panda. A panda of the the fall-down, boy-hesitant-to-become-a-man variety. A portly, sluggish, uncoordinated panda. A hapless and pudgy panda. A lazy, soft-bodied panda. A panda who is so fat he can barely get out of bed. A martial arts-obsessed panda who lives his dreams of high-flying glory. A tubby panda who becomes the unlikely choice to battle a martial arts supervillain. A panda who confronts his foes. A panda who defeats the snow leopard but is sort of a paper tiger. A big, fuzzy panda performing martial-arts encounters. A panda using an unorthodox panda-style technique. A pop-eyed stuttering and reckless panda. When you think “survival skills,” you just don’t think “panda.” A panda who has a dream that he will probably never fulfill. Panda !!!!! Oh oh oh oh, oh oh oh: Panda! Nate and I love this panda! We haven’t seen Kung Fu Panda yet though. Hopefully you understand that this panda is a metaphor for how we choose to live our lives. A pudgy panda who dreams that he is a Kung Fu master. A panda who dreams of doing kung fu, in spite of his large size and being generally out of shape. The only panda i couldnt take. But for every other panda, join my group “I could take a panda in a fight” :D Een onhandige jonge panda die ervan droomt om een kung fu-meester te worden. A panda who must traverse 13 multi-stage levels from the movie and beyond, spanning air, water and land, to battle a variety of foes, overcome dangerous obstacles, navigate multi-tiered environments and solve challenging puzzles. By setting in ancient China, the story basically narrates about a panda, which loves eating but eagerly wants to be a master of kung fu. After a series of adventures and training, this panda eventually becomes the Dragon Warrior, mastering kung fu skills. A martial arts panda. A bumbling do good Panda that stumbles into the biggest animal kingdom martial arts competition around. A panda who learns martial arts and then uses this new ability to fight his enemies. A lazy, irreverent slacker panda who must somehow become a Kung Fu Master in order to save the Valley of Peace from a villainous snow leopard. A panda who enters the rigid world of Kung Fu and turns it upside down. A giant, lazy, slow animal (Panda) with it's affinity for food, having probably the least chance to make it up the Kung-Fu ranks. A panda who is lazy, clumsy, and has no skills whatsoever. A fat lazy panda dreaming of being a great kung fu warrior and saving the world from the throws of evil through his fighting skills. A panda who is obese and a complete novice at martial arts. A clumsy panda with dazzling kungfu powers. A fat panda, devoid of any Kungfu skills. Traditional styles of Kungfu aren't fit for this giant panda. A useless lump of a panda who realizes his life long dream to become a kung fu master. A clumsy and unfit panda who tries to become the ultimate fighting force. A panda who masters unique Panda Style moves to become the world’s greatest kung fu warrior! A panda who puts his heart – and his girth – into the task, and ultimately finds that his greatest weaknesses turn out to be his greatest strengths. A panda misfit with weak or zero martial arts background having to undergo harsh training under a kung fu master, finally realizing his true calling in time to defeat the villain everybody fears. A panda who must embrace his true panda nature and use his physical attributes, including his large belly and rear end. A panda whose adventures are loaded with “are you serious” fanboy awe. damn, the progress of training panda was awesome. it is like having special forces training for panda. A clumsy fat panda, proudly recognized and able within a few days to overcome the first master residual leopard. A panda who is ready to kick some butt! A panda who brings home some mega panda action! A schlub panda who loves kung fu for its outward “hy-yah!” appeal. A cuddly panda that can kick butt. A panda who is violent and might not be suitable for the smallest of children. idk if ide get into a bad ass dumpling fight with a squirly fuzzy panda bastard ... A panda bear trained in deadly martial arts and given the slavish adoration of millions of small children everywhere. しょうがないだろう. A Panda who knows Kung Fu too much.

This Panda is More “Kung Fu”

A cute computer-generated panda! A panda fighting over a cookie, amazing! A fat panda talking about his awesomeness and I’m literally going: GAG ME. A panda who is so damn cute, especially when he picks up a piece of rock and hides it when tigress makes a split to break the rock plates!! LOL I KNOW A charmingly well-spoken panda in a cartoonish adventure that felt a lot like a glorified version of older 2-D games. 賣麪的小伙子醉心於武術，因為一個武林大會而被發現為武俠奇才，三兩下手藝盡得師傅真傳，繼而替師傅消滅了害群之馬 ……等等等等，像在看武俠小說。 A chubby panda bear who has more passion for eating than making the food at his family’s noodle restaurant. A panda who was acting like squirrel of Ice age ..... going to do everything for his food. A panda who works in his family’s noodle shop while daydreaming about becoming a Kung Fu master. A panda who works in his father’s noodle shop in China, but always thought that he was destined for more. A clumsy panda bear who unenthusiastically works as a waiter for his father’s noodle restaurant and eventually achieves his dream and becomes a master of martial arts. A panda who is a lazy and runs a small noodle shop and is fond of the sport Kung fu. The panda is fascinated to such an extent that he doesn’t give much time to the running and profit making at his shop. A great big tub of a panda bear helping his dad run a noodle restaurant in the Valley of Peace. A panda who is the biggest fan of kung fu around which doesn’t exactly come in handy while working every day in his family’s noodle shop. An overweight, underachieving panda who spends his days serving noodles at his father’s restaurant and his nights dreaming of kung fu greatness. A panda who wants to be the greatest kung fu master in the Valley of Peace. What can he do, it is only a dream.
When he woke up, he is just a fat panda and helping his father selling noodles, instead of being a Kung Fu master. 阿波是一隻每天做著功夫夢的胖熊貓，爸爸卻希望他有天能傳承祖上遺留的煮麵秘訣。 A panda bear whose father is a goose for some reason. 接下來讓我覺得更屌的安排出現了，主角熊貓下樓去找他老爸，但是他老爸居然是一隻鴨子！ Then he goes downstairs and his father is a duck! A miscegenated panda bear. The panda son of a line of geese (this is never explained) and whose destiny is to run the family noodle shop. duck+what=panda?

Dude, if there gonna have a DUCK be the father of a PANDA BEAR they should at least explain why! i thought it was going to be somthing like “you the son of a powerful warrior” or “im not really your dad if you think about it ... i mean i’m a bird ... and youre ... a panda!”

An agile, block-breaking panda. A martial arts geek panda. A panda who clobbered Wall-E at the Annie Awards. A panda who adds a comedic twist to panda conservation. A panda who is basically a modern day fanboy but being one myself the storytellers are forgiven. A panda I can’t get over his fur poofy. A panda who does that creepy cross eyed nervous smile thing. A panda who wheren’t the funniest either. A cute and fluffy panda. A panda who is transformed from a loser into a hero. A fat lazy perpetually hungry panda. A clumsy fat Panda. A panda who is friggin Awesome. A panda who was pimped to sell tickets. A cuddly, oversized black-and-white bear attempting to learn kung fu. A bumbling giant panda bear voiced by Jack Black. A panda who REALLY gives you a sense of the real Jack Black. A fat, clumsy, lazy panda who dreams to understand the ancient teachings of kung-fu. Panda learns how to turn his weakness into advantage. A panda who must must work his way to become the Dragon Warrior and defeat the ultimate enemy, Tai Lung, as he battles a variety of foes, overcomes dangerous obstacles, navigates multi-tiered environments and solves challenging puzzles. A panda who wants to be a Kung Fu legend, but he is too roly poly and uncoordinated. A panda who is obese and a complete novice at martial arts. A panda who is the Dragon warrior and fights bad people. I don’t know why they think a panda can't be the dragon warrior, if he's a panda who is the master! A panda who eats and trains to become a Kung Fu Panda. A panda who was kung fu fighting ... as a panda bear. The Panda, small and cute, especially when he walks. A panda whose character, body language and facial expressions are evocative of Jack Black. A husky panda voiced with lots of ooo-waaaahhh goofiness by Jack Black. Jack Black plays the voice of the panda. A panda who features signature "Panda Style" maneuvers, including the Panda Quake, Panda Stumble and Iron Belly Blast. A panda who is convinced that he is a great Kung-Fu fighter. A panda who never strains to "score points" with political correctness. A panda who is indeed awesome, but films like these are degrading and damaging, furthering panda stereotypes. Frankly, I'd rather watch this panda than endless videos of kittens meowing. A panda who shows a disappointing lack of fan service. A lazy panda who is chosen to become a kung fu master and save the land from the evil snow leopards. A martial arts-obsessed animated panda. A panda whose style is worthy of the Shaw Brothers. A panda who joins forces with Russian Santa Claus at the Russia Shaolin Wushu Learning Center in Moscow, capital of Russia, Jan. 8, 2010. A panda. A panda that works for a restaurant making noodles. A panda that spends all his spare time dreaming of being a kung fu warrior. He's also clumsy and large.阿波是一隻圓滾滾笨手笨腳的熊貓,也是天底下最熱血的中國功夫迷,只可惜他每天得在老爸開的麵館打雜。 A panda is a hero at home to open the noodle shop, from the father to work, he will be the future succession of noodle shop, even though he is not in this but his father saw him only as a noodle shop owner in the future. He wanted to learn martial arts, but the body does not look like, think four weeks is not friends, and even his own believe they are not necessarily talented, he can only fantasize about being a hero, there are days to dominate the martial arts. 六月份《功夫熊猫》首映，在世界范围内掀起一股中国热。观众们恐怕想起那些中国味道十足的音乐、山水、建筑、武术动作设计和搞笑的情节，都会露出会心的微笑。最令人意外的，恐怕是熊猫得到的最高武功秘籍竟然与它父亲告诉它的面条配方一样——那就是“无”。最令人意外的，恐怕是熊猫得到的最高武功秘籍竟然与它父亲告诉它的面条配方一样——那就是“无”。 The most surprising, I am afraid it is of the highest martial arts panda tips and it was his father tell it, like the pasta recipe – that is, “None.” 而原本一无是处的熊猫，面对功夫高强的“学长姐”与不友善的老师，靠得完全是他的“缠”字诀，他就算被打被整被嘲笑，还是为著自己的梦想而撑下去。 The panda was useless, in the face of high-strength efforts of the “older sister” and unfriendly teachers, is that it is relying on his “entangled” tactic, he was even beaten by laughing at the whole, or in order to dream up their own continuance. 但熊猫便从这空空中领略到了最强的力量。Panda will be empty, but from the taste of the strongest forces

A fat, rather lazy panda who works in his dad’s (James Hong) noodle shop, but dreams of being the kung-fu master of all time. Dad, by the way, is either a crane or stork, which the film appears to be about to explain at one point and then doesn’t. A panda who lives in the Peaceful Valley and works at the noodle shop run by his father, a goose named Ping (James Hong), even though he’d much rather be a kung fu master.

The panda live in a dream world, dreaming of being a Kung Fu master.

故事發生在古老的中國，主人翁是一隻懶惰又愛投機取巧的熊貓，為了保衛牠所居住的和平谷不讓惡毒的雪豹侵佔，最後她成為了一位功夫大師。

有些話我真的快落淚耶 —XD 但是好成龍功夫， 很好笑， 但是也真得猜得出米國人在想啥。

I can’t exactly describe my feelings about this panda.

I ♥ Panda.
Panda :D

A panda who is certainly a flawed character, one that a lot of people can relate to because he dreams, he’s funny, and he can laugh at himself. Also, the story was pretty clear and easy to follow. A panda who is a lovable creature and everyone can relate to a person who dreams of the impossible. A panda whose flawed character is very refreshing. A panda who had his own personality. A panda who is full of heart and charm. A panda who expressed himself with the jitter of stomach action alone, not speech. The idea of this panda may seem a bit “questionable,” but don’t believe that. COXPCU? Meaning, Cute Overload Xtreme Panda Closeup, of course. A big awkward panda. An adolescent panda. If he weren’t a giant panda, you’d call him a typical preteen. In my opinion, this panda was trying to tell everyone to be themselves and do what you love to do. Other than that the movie was great and represented alot of very good details. A panda who ultimately learns that if he believes in himself, he can do anything. A panda who manages to straddle the line between podgy clown loser and hero with the transformative power of his wit and good lines. A clumsy Panda who finds virtue and value in himself. A panda who surprised everyone, including himself, on what he could achieve if he set his mind to it. That’s another plus: nice messages. A panda whose sweet dream is broken.

It is quite hard to unwrap a complex model like a human character or this panda. 老實說，電影散場後我反而越覺得主角的個性讓我漸漸感到厭煩，大概是對他的搞笑慢慢膩了吧，而且我真的無法接受他突然變的超強這種安排，相較之下我反而覺得那個大反派的身世背景讓我深深感動，他很強而且是個需要稱讚的小孩。

This panda has stepped in bleach – and has a headache, it seems. He has perfected the art of grabbing a nap whenever the mood strikes. A panda who had me practically falling out of my seat – laughing. i wow kung fu panda. i wuv kung fu panda. A large awkward Panda who makes noodle soup just like his father, who is actually a goose. His dad expects panda to follow in his footsteps, but all panda thinks about and dreams about is Kung Fu. The problem is, this panda is just a solitary dreamer and doesn’t even really know kung fu. A panda who begins his journey living in the village as the son of a noodle maker. He dreams of bigger things and feels out of place. The symbolic fact that he is a panda surrounded by pigs, rabbits, and geese helps point that out to the audience. 忽然有一種被冷落的感覺啊，但，動物可能也不在乎吧。 The panda is growing up through the kung fu training experience. A panda who realizes the ridiculousness of his situation, but ultimately realizes this is his last chance to own up to his own greatness. 因為阿波不甘自己只是一輩子賣麵 …… A panda who is smarter than your average bear, not to mention sweet of disposition and amusingly smart-alecky. A kind hearted, but initially inept panda. A panda who touched my Chinese heart.

jaja, yo igual que el panda, tb.
pandaaaaaaa
woa ........... chú panda bur quá.
chubby is cute :)

you dont belong here ...... ah tigrese .. you are cold with panda. I want to say again, at the end I cried until I would explode, and I cried the whole time the credits were rolling, tears stinging my eyes. 我要再說一次，結尾我哭到炸開了，炸到朋友側頭看我的時候嚇到，而且我哭到整個credits在播的時候眼睛刺痛睜不開。 A panda who reveals his sweet, vulnerable side. A panda whose dreams of being a kung fu warrior are pretty much just dreams to him. He never seriously thinks he could do it. A panda who just likes watching from afar. poor panda =] A panda who doesn’t believe in his abilities, but when the chance comes up to actually do it, he steps right up to the plate. A panda who’s got a nice message about following your dreams and staying true to who you are and not being embarrassed about who you are. 圓滾滾又好吃懶做的熊貓阿波, 其個性真可謂一般大眾的縮影, 心中有宏大的理想, 卻又不明說, 甚至 也不敢為夢想拋開一切努力實現, 但 可透過這部卡通電影來實現那看似遙不可及的夢想，所有人物改由適合的動物擬人化地演出：熊貓的確是種愛吃少動的動物，而仙風道骨的老者是隻烏龜，形象上頗為符合，另外，蓋世五俠也是依其體型而有不同的武功，而殘忍冷血的壞人就由嗜血的豹所取代。Pandas also have lazy pudgy bodies, and their personalities can be considered representative of the general public: at heart, grand ideals, but the path to achieve them is unknown. They dare to dream, and dreaming is separated from the effort to achieve; but such dreams can be achieved thru cartoon movies like this one, that look like a distant dream, where all of the characters are replaced by suitable personified animals. The panda is indeed a kind of love, moving the animals to eat less. The figure who trained him is the turtle, an image quite consistent with an old master or wise old man. The Furious Five each have different powers according to their size, while the cruel cold-bloodness of the evil is replaced by the bloodthirsty snow leopard. Although the panda becomes proficient at kung fu, his size doesn’t change. A panda who goes from out of shape and large to in shape and large. A panda whose belly fat ends up helping him out. A panda who is every bit a children’s hero, and in a day and age where we are constantly being reminded of how fat we are, he is tribute to all that one can achieve with self-belief, not svelteness. A panda who journeys from noodle chef to dragon warrior, from responding to external (formal) authority to learning of his personal authority, from being deauthorized from below and authorized from above but eventually earning the respect of both, from responding to a counter-dependent authority model to an interdependent authority model. This is a story full of how personal growth and authority are linked. I don’t like them make the panda do kungfu. I like it. but panda’s eyes look not too good. The daydreaming – I share that with this panda. And the insecurity. A panda who puts his heart and his girth into the task, and ultimately finds that his greatest weaknesses turn out to be great strengths. A jolly black-and-white panda. A panda who learns to be optimistic and to believe in himself and his abilities. He also faces his personal fears, and triumphs over them. Finally, he surrounds himself with positive people. Isn’t it amazing how one animated children’s movie can send such a strong message to our younger generation. 阿波的爬樓踢也讓我覺得寫實且好笑 …… This panda is an overweight dreamer. A panda wannabe. A panda with enough theoretical, bookish knowledge but no Real Kung Fu experience. A panda who ultimately becomes a Kung Fu hero by learning that if he believes in himself, he can do anything. A panda who also carries a deep philosophy ... teaches us on the importance of the hidden treasure that we often forget .. inner beauty! An energetic, enthusiastic, always hungry martial arts panda. A cute lovable panda. A klutzy, oversize fan boy panda. A soft and bouncy panda. The panda made my heart melt! Panda is super cute! X3 pandinaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaa :___) so cutteee!!!! Don't compare this model with the real one you saw in movie. I simplified many things.

Panda was great.

I feel for this panda.

A panda who may look like just another portly panda bear, but beneath his fur he bears the mark of the chosen one. 我愈來愈不相信自己的能力了。我只是一頭餓了便想吃的熊貓，沒法相信自己是能對抗敵人，帶來和平的「神龍武士」。Master 烏龜一直堅信熊貓就是「神龍武士」，他說這世界沒有意外 (There are no accident) ，桃花樹的種子終究只會長出桃花樹，不會因主觀意願而變成其他桔子或蘋果樹。Master 烏龜在羽化成仙，隨花瓣而去前仍叮囑鼬鼠(是鼬鼠吧?)師傅要相信。This panda is bored of his monotonous lifestyle, but his life suddenly takes a sudden turn when he comes to know that its him that an ancient prophecy refers to. A lazy, irreverent slacker panda who is the biggest fan of Kung Fu around. A panda who unwittingly becomes the chosen one when enemies threaten the village he lived in. A panda whose transformation helped to change the world. The transformation is historical.

Did panda have too much systematic knowledge, conventional wisdom? .. did he have an illusion of control .. he was just what he was, himself, doing the basics right with courage .. devoid of too much knowledge of the system, not enclosed in a box. Unfortunately the global financial system had no celestial intervention or the wisdom of Sagely kungfu guru Oogway. I wanted to take a picture with the panda, but on both occasions that he appeared there was a noticable line of people waiting to take pictures with him. 這真的是很不錯的安排，他讓整部片就只有一隻熊貓，簡單的讓焦點就集中在主角身上了，不會有其他熊貓干擾，而且用動
物来表现那个角色的性格能让观众一下子就进入状况，而且我感到看到一只肥肥的熊猫对著一只小鸭子喊爸爸，那类的画面很搞笑，这样的安排算是一石二鸟。在佛教中，当一名修行者升天，他达到一个更高的存在层次。他不再受制于尘世，成为了佛，一个神。所以熊猫也是如此。不要担心，也许他会在续集中回来。一只非常忠于中国文化的熊猫——家庭关系、佛教哲学、价值观，甚至武术——并且绝对只能是中国写的。熊猫的故事深深打动了中国人。他们能与角色产生共鸣，他们笑了，他们笑到流泪。一只非常美国化的熊猫，只是穿着中国风的装束。中国元素——武术——在这个电影中仅仅成为了熊猫的力量来源，他代表的是特权群体，以及自己的自我实现。一只理解中国文化的熊猫，虽然它不算是熊猫，算是满身的没有内容的华丽外表。

这个周末我抽空看了《功夫熊猫》。不要被好莱坞主题的虚幻所欺骗。事实上，这只熊猫代表了中国电影史上最美好的动画，而且它也表达了中国政治历史中最深刻的隐喻，远远超过熊猫角色的成长故事。

[北京] 跟我去北京动物园看功夫熊猫吧。

冰拉提记事

我害怕这会提醒观众全片透露的中国音乐、山水、建筑、武术动作设计和搞笑情节所表现出的全心的微笑。我担心一个只会说英语但又非常中国化的角色会讲得一波三折云淡风轻，让你一口气看完不觉得累，每三分钟都有笑声从松软的沙发里溢出，结尾获得除暴安良除恶扬善的心理满足并且有一种很痛快的被“娱乐”（而不是被“愚弄”）的感觉，这不是《功夫熊猫》，这是《功夫好莱坞》。
折不扣的“美國夢”式的故事，而且這點毫不妨礙它在全球觀眾裏的認受程度。A panda who interpretate some philosophy ideas in chinese culture very well, positive and suitable for both children and adult. Also, I cannot fail to mention the lovely panda shape.如果请中国导演来拍《功夫熊猫》2008-07-01 08:30:49 标签： 娱乐 | 于是，我们将看到这样一部电影——一个曾经颓废的熊猫，一个被自己曾经的徒弟亲手干掉的“西福”，一个急于复仇的豺豹，一个年轻时留下孽债的龟老，外带两个妩媚的女动物一个风韵犹存一个含苞待放。结尾是，该死的都死了，只有阿宝还活着，但是他发现他心爱的女蝴蝶已经怀上了豺豹的小豺豹……和前面提到的那个结尾相比，我更喜欢我们现在看到的这个结尾：大侠强者之后，面对身边看来要命的完败师弟，酷爱美食、憨态可掬的阿宝就像什么都没发生一样随口问了一句：“我饿了，你想不想去吃点东西？” Thanks for the info about this panda. I hope to meet him someday soon. The entire script for Kung Fu Panda online.

A chubby panda with Jack Black’s voice. A panda who is a cuddly bear. A big, lovable panda bear. A bigger than life and completely lovable panda bear. A sweet but clumsy panda. A panda who is enthusiastic, big and a little clumsy. A roly poly panda bear. A roly poly, cuddly panda. A warm and cuddly panda. A panda bear who is a big kung fu fan. A panda who comes as a love letter, or tribute to Chinese kungfu and the country’s profound culture. A made-in-Hollywood panda welcomed by Chinese viewers. A panda who is only a half-Asian flavor mix of wind, accompanied by sub-par American humor. A panda imitating other animals. A panda who wants to be a Kung Fu champion like the Furious Five, the five best students of Kung Fu master Shifu. A lazy, irrelevant slacker panda who must somehow become a Kung Fu Master in order to save the Valley of Peace from a vicious snow leopard. A Panda who lives in a Chinese town in a valley where a kung-fu rule is about to be seized by a evil spirited tiger who wants to become The Dragon Warrior, the great one. And the Panda comes in his way to achieve it instead. 以為讓熊貓跑跑步，壓幾下伏地挺身，跟師傅搶搶包子，就可以功力大增幹掉壞人，沒錯，我就是看不爽他可以突然變強，那人家苦練幾十年都是練心酸的嗎？唉～我認真了，不這樣搞電影很難結束嘛，給小朋友看的娛樂片劇情這樣就可以了啦。 A panda who dreams of being a kung fu master; however, being a little on the large side and just a waiter in a noodle shop, the chances of him realising this fantasy seem relatively small. A lazy, irreverent slacker panda, named Po, who is the biggest fan of Kung Fu around ... which doesn’t exactly come in handy he’s working in his family’s noodle shop. A panda in ancient China who idolizes the land’s kung fu heroes but is stuck toiling in his family’s noodle shop. A panda stuck in his job at his dads noodle shop but as he cooks and serves he secretly dreams of being a Kung-Fu master. A panda who works in a noodle shop assisting his father (a goose?). A sweet, but clumsy Panda who has dreams of fighting with the legendary Furious Five and protecting the city against all threats. The only problem is that he has no real life experience of kung fu, and his real job is serving noodles at his dad’s noodles shop. A fat slacker Panda Po, who dreams one day of being a kung fu master, but works for his Dad, Mr. Ping (James Hong) in the family noodle shop. Note that the panda’s father is a duck, who dreams one day he will take over the family business.

A fat panda son of a noodle chef who, though being groomed to take over the family business, has dreams of one day becoming a great kung fu master and hero of the people, but while quite game and enthusiastic, he’s lazy, clumsy, and has no skills whatsoever. A reluctant panda hero and assistant at his father’s noodle store, whose only interest seem to be eating and fantasizing about being a great Kung Fu warrior. A panda who is just dreaming of one day to learn kung fu like his idols, the fantastic five, but his father wishes for him to take over their noodle restaurant. A panda who works in a noodle shop run by his noodle-obsessed duck father. An overweight panda who is the son of a noodle maker, who dreams of the panda following in his footsteps. But the panda longs to be a ninja fighter. A fat Panda boy who’s always dreaming about being the greatest warrior of all China only to wake up to the reality of having to serve noodle soup in his father’s shop. A Panda who is raised to sell noodles along with his father, Mr Ping. He then tries to go to a festival to see the crowning of the dragon warrior and, oddly enough, he is chosen to be the dragon warrior. A panda who rises from noodle maker to martial arts expert. A panda who idolizes certain somebodies or some things, and given a day that Fate decides to throw him a curveball and gives him that one opportunity to come up close and personal to meet and greet his idols in the flesh and be thrown into the exact situation that he’s always been dreaming about. A panda who embarks on a “hero’s journey” à la the Shaw Brothers classic “Master Killer.” A Panda who has a goose for a father. A rude panda barging in and demanding to learn kung fu. A panda who trains hard to become wise, fearless, and talented – not to lose weight. A panda whose fatness is not represented in a body positive way. A panda who can pull himself up by those good old Horatio Alger bootstraps and do it all by himself. A panda who, when he saw cookies, he did whatever he could to get to the cookies – he acted, he didn’t think. That action is what makes the difference. A panda whose whole ancient China thing worked really well I thought. A panda designed to capitalize on a growing Chinese-world marketplace with a story set in an uncontroversial ancient China and featuring the one uniquely Chinese export that Westerners love – acrobatic martial arts. A panda who brings a profound free market message that I could not only relate to, but actually almost choked me up. A panda who expresses the Buddhist-Eastern surrender to fate and acceptance of powerlessness. “You can plant a peach seed, but no matter what you want it to be, it will be a peach tree.” Fine. A panda who’s pretty much a washout. A hopeless panda loser that goes from zero to hero in about one day of intense training. A panda doing Kungfu, very mediocre. A panda who fails when he tries to adapt to the accepted forms of Kung Fu. A big fat panda who treats it like a joke. 一只又肥又笨的熊猫，根本不把功夫当回事。 A panda who the villian could have turned into paste. A panda who is rooted in our I-wish-I-were-that-cool society. A panda who is a lazy emotional eater. 一只熊猫永远无法完成自己的使命。 A panda who is mocked by his condescending peers. A panda the other animals badger into giving up. (That panda will never complete his mission.) (It is not a panda.) After seeing Kung Fu Panda, I think it has to be stopped. Also, screw underdogs and sappy love stories. 他们可能会觉得人物（确切地说，是动物）个性过于分明，好动物坏动物太容易分清，不够复杂，不够冲突，不够拧吧。解决方案：让熊猫“阿宝”在成为神龙大侠之前在面馆里终日颓废不堪，凶猛酗酒甚至嗑药逛夜店；再在靠近结尾的某个地方交待出豺豹走向暴力之路的最初动因是他当年最爱的女狐狸曾经被“龟仙大师”纳为56房。 and he really doesn’t even know kung fu. There is a legend in this town that one day the great kung fu master will choose the great dragon warrior who will receive a scroll with the dragon secret inside of it and then use that power to defeat great foes. Well the day has come and of course panda plans to be there and watch. In the process of trying to get to this ceremony he ends up being shot up in the air by fireworks and land smack in the middle of the tournament, right in front of the great master with the great masters finger pointing in his face hearing “you,” “you’re the one, the great dragon warrior.” Panda along with everyone else knows there is something wrong with this picture, but the great master assures him there are no accidents. He is sure that he is not the dragon warrior, but he wants to be so bad that he stays. The turning point came when the new great Master Shefu, come to believe in panda, and takes him to a secret place to offer to teach him kung fu, and be his Master. Panda sees that Shefu believes in him and he gladly accepts. Panda puts himself under Shefu’s authority and submits himself to Shefu’s rigorous training regimen. Panda then becomes the dragon warrior, receiving the scroll he reads it and to his disappointment all he sees is his own reflection. After dealing with a spot of doubt, he realizes that the secret to being the dragon warrior is there is no secret at all, that who he is on the inside is all it takes. He returns to defeat the enemy of his village and then accepts his new identity as Dragon Warrior! I couldn’t help but to see myself in panda; awkward, unsure, full of lacking, and the most unlikely of heroes. But somehow, there is no mistake. God has chosen me and you (Isaiah 43:1) He has chosen us to be his great warriors; to “bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and freedom to prisoners, to proclaim the favorable year of the Lord and the day of vengeance of our God.” Isaiah 61:1-3 And while some of us may not see this at all, Jesus still calls you out with a finger in your face saying “You! your the one.” There are no accidents, in fact His very Spirit is upon us; and he anointed us. (Isa 61:1) He wants to be our master, and to teach us and train us into the warrior he knows we are, the dragon warrior he destined us to be. And then when we look at the scroll of our lives, the historical transformation we see when we gaze into it, is the very reflection of Jesus Christ, saying back at us “well done good and faithful servant.” Can you imagine? How awesome would that be. I want to be trained by the great master, who by the way has defeated the most deadly enemy in the history of mankind and beyond. We can say “NO!” to the other masters in our lives weather it be recognition from others, food, money, alcohol, sex, our children, friends, job, the career path or anything else, and transfer all that dependence onto our new master: Jesus. How about you – are you game? If so, lets start by letting Jesus know that he is now our master and we are not. Dear Jesus, Thank you that you see the greatness in me that I don’t really see. Thank you that you put that greatness in me. I realize now that I am not meant to be master but you are Master and Lord. Help me to realize the person you have already made me to be. Amen.

This panda just wants to eat dumplings and steal cookies. And this panda topples over, bumps into things and sends stuff flying like a fat, furry version of the Chuckle Brothers. And this panda is clumsy, out of shape, undisciplined and preoccupied with food. This panda along with everyone else knows there is something wrong with this picture, but the great master assures him there are no accidents. This panda is vibrant and lifelike. This panda is gentle and lovely. This panda is a nerd extraordinaire. This panda is a tomato-shaped fanboy. This Panda is the laziest Panda in the valley. This panda isn’t up to the challenge at first. This panda fell out of the sky and becomes the Dragon Warrior. He trains and becomes legendary. This panda is another representative of the modern animation pop culture. This panda’s values can be applied to China’s panda, just as it could be applied to Mickey Mouse which symbolizes American culture. But the interesting thing is that we see the ancient Chinese traditions and learn more about different martial arts. 其實沒人說我們能當功夫熊貓。在西方的現實體系裏，不是可愛熊貓，而是讓人恐懼的，或者是悲情的熊貓。如果实在要畫一幅圖像的話，我想，應該是，山姆大叔調教熊貓，讓他不要搗蛋了，好好練功夫，造福世界。 This panda shows so-called “Oriental Fever” – a massive enthusiasm with wisdom, mystery, complexity of the cultures of China, Korea and Japan. He is similar to “Hero” and “Couching Tiger, Hidden Dragon” movies. This panda is ‘Chinese’ in the way that Springfield-style Cashew Chicken is ‘Chinese.’ This panda has uniquely Chinese messages delicately hidden within. The whole self-reliance and “believe in yourself” theme has not only been done to death, it’s not very Chinese either. Sorry, panda! Some of the Chinese name pronunciations need more practice. This panda has nothing Taoist about it. This panda is full of fortune-cookie Chinese philosophy. This panda is a fortune cookie version of Chinese culture. 其中還不乏有功夫熊貓的宣傳劇照。 This panda will do anything for a cookie. And this panda will confuse kids under the age of 8. This panda is too childish for adult entertainment. This panda models violence and is not safe for children. This panda reeks of high concept and conjures up visions of the sort of wink-wink, nudge-nudge self-referentiality now common to a good many animated features. This panda is crazy, dawg. It’s fun to watch this panda just to think some dork in San Francisco has spent 1600 man hours animating my whiskers. This panda is soft-spoken and unassuming. This panda is an elite kung fu warrior. This panda is an advocate of the fighting cult of kung fu. This panda has shown us the way! This panda does not carry a very nice message. 豁免熊貓和功夫都是所謂中華文化的象徵西方Hollywood要如何表現得恰如其份加上所有的演員都是“動物”Hollywood要如何善用動物的特性表現出中國功夫的精神並帶出擬人的趣味。 This big, lovable bear is the Chinese panda. This panda is not an American panda or a Hollywood panda, but a panda belonging to the World. This panda is perfect combination of two most famous Chinese elements – Panda and Kung Fu. This panda is used to promote and sell instant success, instant gratification, and no money down/buy-it-on-credit mindsets. This panda represents the weakness of Chinese thinking on “soft power.” This panda is very “American.” This panda is a matter of great concern for the PRC. This panda is not Chinese. 于是，我们将会看到这样一部电影—一个曾经颓废的熊猫，一个被自己曾经的徒弟亲手干掉的“西福”，一个急于复仇的豺豹，一个年轻时留下孽债的龟老，外带两个妩媚的女动物一个风韵犹存一个含苞待放。结尾是，该死的都死了，只有阿宝还活着，但是他发现他心爱的女蝴蝶已经怀上了豺豹的小豺豹。 This panda is transformed into a kungfu fighter to save a threatened village in ancient times, which is essentially the entire movie. This Panda dared to confront the Leopard. Questa Panda c’è un chiaro riferimento alla massoneria. OMG I can’t believe I’m actually going to watch this panda. The decadent bear in this movie has sloppy technique. This is one funny Panda! This Panda will for sure make you laugh as a Master! This panda is tons of fun! And this panda is certainly great balls of white and black fur!
Wall-E makes panda steaks out of this panda. This panda wants to be a dancer, he isn’t a cook and he doesn’t want to fight – he just wants to dance and he has to use Kung Fu to support his dancing habit ... or something like that. This one could go either way. 聽起來理所當然，那麼像《功夫熊貓》這類以古代中國為故事背 景，文化味道濃厚的故事，要做到「世界性」難免變得不倫不類，有觀眾批評《功夫熊貓》徒具中國元
素的包裝，骨子裡仍是荷里活精神，雖然Raman只參與了《功夫熊貓》外傳的製作，但已讓他明白，這 些批評正正說到困難的核心。「《功夫熊貓》兩位美國導演對中國文化十分尊重，他們看過的中國功夫 片比很多中國人所看過的還要多，做足資料搜集，有深入了解後才創作。」可是，動畫雖是藝術創作， 但同時也是商業產品，要向投資者交待，投資者和上市公司並無責任要推廣任何地方的文化，只要能賺 錢，養活旗下的員工便可以，所以電影的核心價值一定要得到美國觀眾接受，從嘲笑到憤怒的轉變其實 是我們自信心的完全淪喪，如果說嘲笑之時，我們還可以驕傲地固守著那份所謂的東方文化，那麼憤 怒的原因其實便是這個東方文化最後的底線已經讓西方人偷學得八九不離十了。 Some may at first think that the motivation of this Panda is merely to eat, and his passion at stuffing his face fuels his Kung Fu ablility.
But, this unrealistic fantasy is not the case.

看完這部片 超想像去北京看熊貓的啦~
After reading this piece went to Beijing to see ultra-想看啦~ panda

剧情介绍

(文/长十郎)山青水秀的和平谷有点类似武当山，因为同样都住着一群武林高手。然而不同的是，和平谷中的武林高手，全都是动物。

熊猫阿波（杰克·布莱克）大概是谷中少有的不会武功的居民。又肥又迟钝的阿波在父亲经营的面馆里工作，父亲希望阿波能继承面馆，然而阿波却一心想学武功，成为谷中第一的功夫大师。但是这对向来好吃懒做的阿波来说，也只是个遥不可及的梦想而已。

龟仙师近日有不祥预感。雪豹，外号大龙的大恶魔即将要突破住它多年的黑牢。大龙出狱后必定会来和平谷复仇。于是，和平谷要马上召开武林大会，选出一名代表对抗大龙。

谷民最看好的是谷中五大高手：母老虎大师（安吉丽娜·朱莉）、美女蛇（刘玉玲）、猴大师（成龙）、鹤大师（大卫·克洛斯）以及螳螂大师（塞斯·罗根）。这五大高手在个子小小的师父红熊（达斯汀·霍夫曼）设置的武台上一绝高下。

阿波当然不放过这么热闹的场面，一早占好位置观摩。原本只想当个开心看客的阿波，竟然莫名其妙地在武林大会中被龟仙师看中，成为将与大龙一决生死的和平谷代表，这一结果让谷民相当震惊。

既然天意如此，师傅也只好认证阿波的资格。然而阿波不会武功是事实，于是在短时间内将这只胖熊
猫变成武林高手成为师傅职业生涯中最大的挑战。与此同时，五大高手，也就是阿波的师兄师姐，以各种心态和方式调教（戏弄？）阿波。到底阿波能不能成为功夫高手？能不能在豹爪下逃生呢？

《功夫熊猫》对中华民族的影响

派拉蒙的《功夫熊猫》，无疑是把给所有中国导演的耳光，打得啪啪作响了，说打好吧，因为确实有人的心里对这部电影拍起了巴掌的，但有人怀疑笔者的爱国之心，然而，派拉蒙搞出个迎合中国观众的电影出来，他未必是爱你这个中国！

因为电影进军中国，是好莱坞打的一出牌。一惯宏大惊悚，魔幻灾难走俏的好莱坞电影未免使人审美疲劳，而穿越文化壁垒，通过“文化殖民”，就地掠夺文化原料，并对原料加工出售，以亲切的方式占领外国观众，这里成就了好莱坞电影题材和市场的新开垦方式，他们开始大量吸引本国观众和资金，而应是国人感到文化侵略的危机。而这些同样也得益于华尔街的金融危机，正因为是这样的危机，使好莱坞的电影份额寻求新的题材和市场原地，所以危机也将造就新的好莱坞。

有人说功夫熊猫发扬了中华文化，很不错啊，如果我恨我的民族，那我也会说好，而我却时常痛心于鼠辈们所说的文化发扬，西方人把中国文化发扬，去火药造成枪，在1840以来开始教训中国人怎么才是文化发扬，非常令人窒息的事，我恨有些扛着“文化发扬”大旗的人们，就像是刚把刨出来的土豆屈膝奉于别人一般，一点尊严和技术含量都没有！文化发扬不是送别人东西，不只是文化扩散，文化扩散是比较低层次的东西，而如何把原有文化加工提炼，再把外国的文化信手捻来，创造出一种新的东西，这才算你“发扬文化”的本事，美国人没有那么伟大和热心，愿意义务传播你的中华文化，他们只不过是利用你的文化创造他们自己的价值罢了，这才是明明白白的事！那些为文化发扬而奔走的国人们，你们该清醒了，
不要到处去把我们的东西硬塞给别人，那样是徒劳的，那样是愚蠢的，那样是使人无聊的。派拉蒙的《功夫熊猫》只具有你中华的文化的元素，再创造出来的文化价值就比原原本本的中国文化元素的价值高很多；而且世界人民爱熊猫，但现在开始，他们也开始爱阿波——美国人造出的功夫熊猫，这是世界人民对美国文化了解和理解的入口，而这动画当面向了孩子们，你们知道是什么影响吗？功夫熊猫深 入儿童们的心灵，像迪士尼的米老鼠一样，外国的文化在美好的童年就在儿童们心里生了根，从爱米老鼠到爱迪士尼，从爱上千里到爱上日本动漫，生动的外国文化产物在本国儿童们的心中生根发芽，无疑把中国导演那种虎脸打得粉碎。中国的导演给了本国的儿童什么，几乎没有，我们的童年在米老鼠的周围度过，而当我们长大时我们又喜欢《魔戒》，从小的时候就开始抓住了其他国家的观众，这也是好莱坞电影的一大妙笔，给中国导演一点面子的解释是，他们不屑于儿童的电影似的，而同时本国电影在探索中也有误入歧途的，《苹果》开始学韩剧，新版的《红楼梦》又要开始高深了，而《赤壁》又在低古人的棺木，《集结号》的灵感来源于《拯救大兵瑞恩》，其余的导演们都再要宏伟，把儿童甩在一边，皱起的导演们只关心自己的大作，陈凯歌当年的《无极》未免有点童话的味道，但连成人们都不知其所云，儿童们只知道那满神阿姨的长发，但后来她就在电影中不见了，中国电影带给孩子们的都是失望，这个失望由外国电影弥补！

有的人似乎有些明白起来，开始抵制《功夫熊猫》，但熊猫的可爱加上中国功夫的魅力，而同时这就是本国的文化标志和精华，早已来势熊熊了。你能抵挡得住吗？我不能！我无能于劝说本国导演们的奋发图强，无能于控制好莱坞对本国民族的狂热，你要知道我爱我自己的文化的同时，不得不去看看派拉蒙的《功夫熊猫》对中国文化的加工再造，我无能于劝说儿童们不去看《功夫熊猫》，而如何去补偿他们的损失，无能于去给本国的电影标本去带给本国导演们一些冲击力的启示！

抓住电影商机也是好莱坞电影的另一大牌，由商业引发的电影产业的国际化融合，也最终导致了当前“电影中国热”以及“好莱坞中国热”的局面，从多年前《星球大战前传3》到中国取景，到《面纱》、《黄石的孩子》等片大多在中国拍摄，大部分启用中国本土演员；从《功夫之王》的“中西合璧”到《木乃伊3》“中国故事”为主，越来越多的好莱坞人已逐渐越来越深悟浮高的投资花在了这个
在他们眼里还不很熟悉的遥远国度。除了对经济利益的不断追求，还有对长远发展的前期投入，老练的派拉蒙此番《功夫熊猫》这一招便是最显眼的向中国电影市场“示好”。大量使用中国文化符号与民族符号，借助中国以及奥运的热度为自己大赚银子的同时，抢先对手们占得更多的先机。

我不知道中国人何时失去了创造力。有人说大力发扬中国文化，但是世界都知道你发明了四个大的发明，都知道孔子和儒学。都知道你发明了四个大的发明，都知道孔子和儒学，不知道你们地意思是不是要把中国所有的文化，包括文言文和甲骨文，都要给外国人看，让它们都明白呢？但真的如此，你又能怎样？古希腊人把文化给了古罗马人，还是被罗马人灭，我的意思就是要提醒你们不要再做奴仆，你们并不伟大，你们为何要做好莱坞的走狗！从历史的所知看来，中国本就是有创造力，创造了不灭的文明，但我看到了西方人士的更加有利的东西，那就是对文化的吸收和再创造，就像经济吧，用你的低价原料，创造了高贵的商品，你说谁更有赚头呢？但更可悲的是中国人现在好像连创造力没有了似的，只知道把文化送人，自己贬低自己文化的价值，却不知道如何加工后再出。奥运就在眼前，却不知道把电影和奥运结合起来，而当《功夫熊猫》中的熊猫来势汹汹的时候，它的魅力和功夫形象所具有的文化含量及意义显然远超中国自己的奥运吉祥物，单从“龙之武士”这一名字就可以使龙的传人们热血沸腾的了。正如派拉蒙的策略家们所料，熊猫加功夫就是天下第一，谁的心灵能抵挡得住呢？这就是对电影市场的敏锐预料，也同时改变我个人的一些想法，就比如我开始不同意熊猫成为中国的国宝，但看了此电影之后，我的想法就完全转变了，觉得熊猫的魅力可以和中国的文化精髓结合，只不过可惜这个结合最先由外国人完成，此外还有就是它一个美好的称呼：龙之武士，我只觉得取这个名字使外国佬真是个天才，因为中国自号“龙”，而有高深功夫曰“武”，把魅力的化身“熊猫”，称为“龙之武士”，它是保卫“龙”以及“龙的传人”的武士，无疑派拉蒙把熊猫比作了中国的福星，而同时我们也乐意这么认为；很显然地，“龙之武士”，它集中中国图腾，中国文化的，和中国的魅力于一体，完美胜任了它作为国宝的美名。

而当我在看魅力而同时具有功夫的可爱熊猫的同时，1840那以后的屈辱的痛，不知道你能不能在看了《功夫熊猫》之后有所隐痛呢？同样是用中华“发扬”出去的文明，而鞭策了中国一部分人麻木的头脑。有所区别的就是，这次纯属文化的进攻和资金的赚取罢了，而以文化进攻带来的影响巨大。你知道什么
什么是文化进攻呢，简单地说，就是心灵的占有，儿童的心我们的导演没抓住，这可不是儿戏的，文化对人的心灵的左右是很大的，而其中特别是电影了，大家总不希望本国的儿童的心灵由外国的影片始终左右吧，左右得好尚可，左右不好则完蛋，所以我总觉得本国电影的真正崛起，是文化安全的支柱之一，导演！导演！

不过《功夫熊猫》我还是要看，我也推荐给别人看，而艺人们最好也必须看的。因为好莱坞赚走了中国人的钱和人心的同时也未必不给我们些启发，这也是我推荐给大家看的原因，同时也该为这部片子的制作团体致敬！他们给中国人的影响应该是对整个民族的影响，而他们敢予吸收和大胆的再创造以及对电影市场的敏锐思维等种种品格足以让中国的导演们把他们当作老师！

影片幕后

从2005年九月，影片开机至今，历时长达两年多有余，可见好莱坞动画新贵梦工厂对影片绝对是精益求精，而且，得知此片拍摄消息的影迷和业内人士也足足被制片方吊足了胃口。这部有着浓郁中国特色的动画电影在乔纳森·艾贝尔和格伦·伯杰两位完全没有电影剧本经验的作者手中，竟会是个什么样子，亦谋杀了人们不少的脑细胞。如今，在影片即将面世之时，显见这两位曾精诚合作了多年且受到过艾美奖等项青睐的编剧兼制片人在此前公司发布的影片精彩片花之后得到为数众多的影迷们的好评。在两人的笔下，影片的故事发生地已不是中国本土，崇山峻岭、绵延不断，犹如曾名耀世界的中国传统山水画一般，透着一股朦胧的迷人气息。影片中和平谷的建筑风格更让人们想起了武当山的古迹。

而在角色方面，两位编剧深得传统中国武术的“真传”，除了影片的主角——胖胖的熊猫波，绝对是以中国国宝乃至世界稀有动物的身份而近水楼台之外，猴子、毒蛇、丹顶鹤、老虎、螳螂则是中国传统武术中几路最知名且最具特色的拳法武术的代表。无数国人以及众多热爱中国武术的老外们想必都曾为“较
在为数众多的武侠片中，人们更是能亲眼所见。光凭这些个特点独具、鲜明代表的动画武林人物，便足以能招惹全球不少的武术迷关注的眼球。

影片简评

而另一半，则完全要依靠影片最终面世时的表现，以及人们是否对这种“功夫”加“熊猫”或者说“功夫”加“动物”的动画表现形式“感冒”了。笔者管见：好莱坞电影题材的匮乏、好莱坞急需扩大的市场容纳、好莱坞电影产业的进一步膨胀、中国国力的迅速腾飞、中国电影市场的渐趋成熟、08年北京奥运引发的“世界中国热”……都成为这部《功夫熊猫》直接或间接上映的原因之一。

由商业引发的电影产业的国际化融合，也最终导致了当今“电影中国热”以及“好莱坞中国热”的局面。从多年前《星球大战前传3》到中国取景，到《面纱》、《黄石的孩子》等片大多在中国拍摄，大部分启用中国本土演员；从《功夫之王》的“中西合壁”到《木乃伊3》“中国故事”为主，越来越多的好莱坞人已将将越来越水涨船高的投资花在了这个在他们眼里还不很熟悉的遥远国度。除了对经济利益的不断追求，还有对长远发展的前期投入。聪明的梦工场和派拉蒙此番《功夫熊猫》这一招便是最具眼珠的向中国电影市场“示好”。大量使用中国文化符号与民族符号，借助中国以及奥运的热度为自己大赚银子的同时，抢占对手们占得更多的先机。

角色简介

熊猫Po：PO本是一家面馆的学徒，但他却梦想着能打遍天下无敌手。命运之神真的眷顾了他，PO意外的担负起了拯救整个山谷的重任：对抗邪恶的泰狼的入侵。虽然PO还只是一个功夫新手，但不轻言 放弃，力图证明自己的实力给反对他的人看… 而在这个过程中，他发现他最大的弱点或许正是他最大力量的源泉…

猴子Monkey：友好，幽默，热情，猴子大师是五位功夫高手中最平易近人的一位，他用随和的态度掩饰着他那非凡的军事才能。猴子很喜欢开玩笑，每次看熊猫学功夫的景象都特别开心…

老虎TIGRESS：老虎TIGRESS是五位功夫高手中最强大，也是最年轻的一位，基本上你可以在她身上发现你想象中的所有英雄气概：远见卓识，勇气过人，大无畏，英雄主义 …… 珍惜每一天。她认为大家对PO的期望完全是个可悲的玩笑。但是再强大的人也难免犯下错误，TIGRESS认识到命运并非总如期待中的方式到来。

仙鹤CRANE：尽管仙鹤是位爷们儿，但却是团队中的“母鸡妈妈”。他善于化解个人的冲突和矛盾，是他们之中最细心周到的一位功夫高手。如果可能，他会避免任何的冲突；但如果战斗不可避免，他便会尽一切可能赢取胜利。

蛇VIPER：虚荣的VIPER是一位嬗变的绝代勇士：先是无限妩媚的调情，接下来便是暴风骤雨般的凌厉攻击。她强大的迷惑能力不仅在于魔法，同样体现在她的力气，她邪恶的本性，她的苛刻…… 接下来就是她招招致命的攻击。所以就不难理解她为什么总是能得到自己想要的任何东西了。

螳螂MANTIS：MANTIS可能是五位功夫大师中体型最小的一位了，但他却从不承认这个：强壮，敏捷，灵活，他总是非常同情PO的苦处，每次都很快来点小幽默帮PO脱离窘境。什么都吓不到他勇敢的小心脏 … 母螳螂除外，（查查昆虫百科就知道为什么了呵呵。）

师傅Shifu：功夫大师SHIFU是中国最出色的功夫教练，致力于培养“王中之王”的功夫高手。但是出色并不等于完美——他是一个严厉的导师，却总是被自己过去的过失所困扰。PO认为他是位“最没禅味 儿的禅宗大师”。但这并不妨碍他将一个软弱的做面条的熊猫训练成一个有足够能力保护山谷不受泰狼攻击的功夫斗士。但是看来，并不是只有PO一个人需要重新学习人生……

泰狼TAI LUNG：泰狼是她自己的忠实粉丝。曾几何时，所有人都认为他是史上最伟大的战士——当然他自己更相信这点。当众人认识到他贪婪的野心时，泰狼暴露了他黑暗的本质：扫荡了整个村子最终被关进了牢不可破的Chorh-Gom监狱，度过了20年。在那里，泰狼时刻等待着时机，寻找着逃脱的机会，出去结束他20年前挑起的战争。

Oh-oh-oh-oh …
Oh-oh-oh-oh …
Oh-oh-oh-oh …
Everybody was Kung Fu fighting
Those jerks were fast as lightning
In fact it was a little bit frightening
But they fought with expert timing
There were funky China men（funky：1. 惊恐的;畏缩的 2. 有恶臭的 3. 【俚】稀奇古怪的）
From funky Chinatown funky China men 是时髦的中国男人的意思
They were trapping when up
They were trapping when down
It's an ancient Chinese art
And everybody knew their part
For my friend, ain’t you a stiff
Then I’m kickin’ from the hip
Everybody was Kung Fu fighting
Those kids were fast as lightning
In fact it was a little bit frightening
But they fought with expert timing
There was funky Billie Jim
And little Sammy John
He said, here comes the big boss Let’s get it on
We took the bow and made a stand Started swaying with the hand
A sudden motion made me stiff
Now we’re into a brandnew trip
Everybody was Kung Fu fighting
Those kids were fast as lightning
In fact it was a little bit frightening
But they did it with expert timing

Keep on, keep on
Keep on, keep on
Everybody was Kung Fu fighting

In fact it was a little bit frightening
Make sure you have expert timing
Oh-oh-oh-oh …
Kung Fu fighting, had to be fast as lightning
Oh-oh-oh-oh …
Keep on, keep on
Keep on, keep on
Everybody was Kung Fu fighting
Had to be fast as lightning

配音

配音

电影从2005年开始筹备，到2007年底才完成，随后又要开展配音工作。梦工场动画大手笔地请来一堆好莱坞大牌明星担任配音工作，杰克·布莱克与熊猫阿波神形皆似，理所当然地成为该片主角的配音员。挺着大肚子的安吉丽娜·朱莉为华南虎大师配音，刘玉玲化身妖媚自负的蛇美女大师，成龙则成了猴大师，至于《一夜大肚》主角塞斯·罗根则为聪明的螳螂大师配音。最难得的是达斯汀·霍夫曼都被请来给师傅配音，这是相当大的面子啊。

看电影时留心音乐，汉斯·辛莫（Hans Zimmer）为该片配的乐。汉斯·辛莫是谁？好莱坞电影配乐的大师之一，其拿奥斯卡奖的作品就是《狮子王》的配乐。其他像《雨人》、《尽善尽美》（As Good As It Gets）、《埃及王子》的配乐，还有备受音乐迷推崇的《细细的红线》（The Thin Red Line）和《角斗士》的原声全出自汉斯·季默之手，甚至连去年的《阿森一族大电影》的音乐也是他做的，还记得该片那首彪悍的《Spider-Pig》吗？说不定《功夫熊猫》中也能有这么“囧”的东西出现呢。

A panda who is soft, approachable, kind, and compassionate. A panda who might have a small crush on Tigress. A panda who likes Tigress, but Tigress doesn’t start out liking him. It never really becomes clear in the film but Po does seem to like her more than the other four so i wouldn’t be to surprised because she is hot for an animated animal, but don’t believe any of the BS about how she fancies him and will be dating in the second movie. Pffft, Trust me. If he liked anyone in the movie or if anyone in the movie liked someone, trust me. DreamWorks would make it look like it is, by kissing or hugging, so no. A panda who looks sharp in his Dragon Warrior garb. A panda who’s so adorable. The Panda: C U T E & A D O R A B L E. A panda who is very cute, and the turtle seems to be a rip-off of Yoda. A panda who is incredibly cute. A cuddly panda. Mmmmm I would like to get in po’s pants. A panda who is ultimately cliche and forgetable. A panda who is ho-hum without being insulting. A panda who was a little rough and tough but not too much. A panda who is different, who has a dream, who has to struggle and so forth. A panda whose underlying sweetness feels more genuine than not. panda is emo! Oh this panda ... xD’ A fuzzy-wuzzy panda. A chubby little Panda. A generously proportioned mound of roly-poly black-and-white fun. An overweight panda bear who saves the world. A panda who really pumped up the happy meter. A young panda that goes a long way from being a helper in his dad’s restaurant to being the legendary Dragon Warrior. An inept panda martial arts wannabee. A panda who is an unconventional student to say the least. A panda who conforms very much to familiar animated-movie type. A panda who is really just a typical Saturday morning cartoon character. A panda who I didn’t particularly find as “unique” as the audience did. Un panda stupido. I saw the Panda, I loved it – well, it was much much better than I expected it to be. A panda who stinks at kung-fu in the traditional way. A panda who is hardly worth the ink. They shouldn’t have gone with pandas. Pandas are not entertaining. A polar bear or maybe a large bird would’ve been better. Kids today are not into kung fu, and they’re not into pandas. Pandas and leopards beating each other up kung-fu style? I mean seriously. Bin überrascht, dass der Erfolg des Panda nicht mehr genutzt wird. If Dreamworks wants to throw away their money on martial arts pandas, I guess they can. The pure hatred and dismissal of this panda as though it has no heart is just plain wrong. I felt sorrier for the leopard than I did the panda. A panda who seems to be holding up well. A black and white computer-generated fur panda. A panda whose father is a goose. A big fat lazy panda wot love eatin noodles and ain’t got a clue bout martial arts. A panda that is too slow to keep the pace with everyone. A spiritually marked panda bear that is a prodigy in Chinese martial arts. A huge Panda bear dreaming to become a Kung-Fu master. A great big tub of a panda bear helping his dad run a noodle restaurant in Valley of Peace. He dreams of doing kung fu, in spite of his large size and being generally out of shape.

A cartoon panda trying to do kung fu. A spiritual kung-fu fighting panda bear. A panda who lived in computer-generated China that looked like it was redecorated for the My Little Pony franchise. A clumsy, unfit panda who peddles Hollywood’s biggest lie: that greatness lies within us and all we need to do to achieve what we want is to believe in ourselves. A fat panda who dreams of being a Kung Fu warrior. However, working alongside his father running a noodle restaurant in a small Chinese valley he could hardly be further from his dream. A panda whose unlikely passion for kung fu leads him out of the noodle shop and into the metaphoric hot pot, whereupon he kicks, grunts and groans toward his destiny amid the usual clutter of colorful sidekicks and one nasty foe. A panda who has his own durable appeal. A panda who’s a great big bouncing ball of fat and fuzz. A panda nincompoop who becomes a hero. A panda who helps peoples to understand Chinese. A panda who was heavily overwrought. this was embarassing when the panda blows himself into the space and lands in the middle of the sports ceremony – as the fuse went off i was pretty sure it would re-ignite itself and that was the only time i was not disappointed in my expectations. A Panda Kung Fu Master. is this some kind of promotional campaign for the beijing olympics, if so it is very half-hearted. Did anyone else find Tai Lung to be really hot for an anthropomorphic snow leopard? He sure is a sexy beast! XD A portly bear and martial arts master. A slothful noodle-restaurant waiter called upon to perform heroic feats of martial arts. A lovably pudgy panda with the voice of Jack Black. A panda bear with a passion for martial arts. A face-stuffing panda turned yowling Bruce Lee dervish. When I saw the panda become so forceful all of sudden, I cann’t help laughing. How was that possible\?\%

Wonderful Kubfu is achieved by painful train and timely apprenhension, not just by so called wisdom. It seems that the panda required a minimal amount of work to become better than the masters who have spent a lifetime on their craft. He can remain fat, out of shape, and slovenly. He achieves no spiritual wisdom to speak of, so that doesn’t explain his success. Presumably his nemesis and competitors also “believed in themselves,” the key to all success. A martial-arts equipped, bamboo-chomping panda bear. Kung Fu Panda?!?! When are these dunces going to try to put together a real film and not an extreme sport mixed with talking animals. Designing the panda with green eyes is a conspiracy. A panda with green eyes has the feeling of evil. I have studied oil painting, and we would never use green eyes to describe a kind-hearted figure. So I ask them to open their creative meeting records of this film and explain why the green eyes? Drawing the father of the giant panda as a duck is an insult to the Chinese people. Also the panda’s eyes are green, which is an evil color. A panda who is way too violent for kids.

och moje PANDZI? TKA ! moje pandzi?dka ;D biedny misio:(:P:D  i love this movie it so funny when panda walking up the stairs he thinks he all most up the top but he’s just walk up 4 steps. 6:33 Tekst ma? pandzi wymiata! My younger sister laughs at the part when shifu fights with the panda!! Haha when he is on the stairs saying ”oh no!” he sounds exactly like a panda LOL. LOL, 6:07 is hilarious!!! =) i love the part when pandas father says ... 05:05 and also when he looks sideways in 06:06. LOL ^0^ 9:43 was a very symbolic moment. This panda is awesome. He and I share some similarities, especially by way of body shape ... 3:12-4:04 =LOL XD Thanks. 9:07 haha. 6:12 hahaha so funny. 3:44 ... Ouch, debe doler. 4:37 no espera me hago pipi jejeje!!! I love that big cute panda bear so funny lol cricket had to act fast of bye panda ahahaha panda stop it hahaha im going to pee LOL it is funny that the panda and viper were practicing viper hits panda into the air and panda landed on his head and viper said “i’m sorry brother I thought you were ready” and panda said “that was awesome let’s go again” he! he! heehheehee i like crazy kids movies. they are better than boring kissy ones. HAHA and this panda can make you LAUGH! omg teehee um well one time me and my sister watched this video of him when the furious five saw panda the first time he was messing around and when shifu went to see them he holded coconuts on his boops lol a bra coconut! Lol At :36 if Panda farted that would be funny. Wit the green gas cloud and everything! if i was po i would knock out shi-fu and tin i can have my food p.s shi-fu looks cute as a red panda. never get between a panda and his dumpling btw i liked the movie also my favorite 1 so far it makes a good cartoon show if it comes 2 tv. kung fu panda accademy of awesomness. any 1 else think most of the time panda is just lucky @zombieporn99 i tought panda was going crazy about what to of do as in to kung fu panda? to just do good be want do be. how come gandalf didnt do this crazy panda tiger kung fu stuff when he was falling to his demise? Il panda è troppo tenero!!! “Vi ammiro tanto ... ” mi sono ammazzata dalle risate quando il maestro tartaruga lo trova sotto il pesco della celestiale saggezza! bello bello bello

goatman .. scares me

It’s the story about a lazy, irreverent slacker panda, named Po. A panda who is foretold to be the Dragon Warrior, much to his shock and surprise, as well as the chagrin of the resident kung fu warriors. Despite his clumsiness, this panda is destined to become the Dragon Warrior and unite with the Furious Five to defeat Tai Lung and save his village. Before the film started, one of the boys told me that he really likes violence. When I asked why, he said it just really excited him. Well this film couldn’t have been more perfect for his taste for violence. I was shocked and dismayed. Although none of the beloved characters is really injured for very long, or killed, the violence was overpowering, especially with all the animated special effects. What is it we are preparing our children for when films like this are rated No. 1 at the box office? How could anyone in their right mind think this is a “positive” message for kids? The whole message of believing is overwhelmed by the violence portrayed. None of us laughed once during the entire film. The one lesson my 7 year old learned was when the Jack Black character carefully used the word “suck.” Panda is fun. 04:12 ... Did he just tighten his ...... ? O_O

Overriding the whole story of the panda and his triumph over his own bungling nature is a recognizably Buddhist sensibility: it is embodied by the Shaolin Monastery-like setting, where spiritual enlightenment is fused with the mental discipline and mastery over the self that are prerequisites to enlightenment.

Do you know a movie called Panda? Year 4, 5, 6 watched this movie yesterday, but we didn’t finished yet.

我伸了個懶腰，正要回頭問士杰是哪一部電影時，迎面走來端著啤酒的空姐正好介入了我和士杰談話的時空點上，直到他端著另一瓶空罐離開後，我回頭看到士杰正拿著剛才送來的那瓶啤酒，大笑道跟我說「功夫熊貓真的很好笑」。回過頭後，我仔細想想，才發現士杰已經很久沒有這麼開心了。

I yawn, stretch, going back to ask what movie Shijie, the head stewardess came just holding the beer and I Shijie involved in space-time point in the conversation, until he holding another bottle cans left, I turned to see Shijie are holding the bottle of beer just sent, laughed and told me that "Kung Fu Panda really funny." Looking back, I think about it, only to find Shijie been a long time not so happy.

我承認，我被感動了很多次。

I admit, I was touched many times.

The Panda was a charmable animal found in Factions areas, but was removed from the game prior to release. The panda was removed from the game prior to release because of local laws: in China you are not allowed to depict the death of an endangered species (such as the panda) in a video game. This pet is still attainable in the form of a Miniature Panda. There was also a full sized panda during the Farewell to Gaile event in Shing Jea Monastery. See Panda (collector). Mattel will be creating a wide range of products across multiple categories

If you are looking for a good gift idea for a boy that you know, then you should think about getting him the Kung Fu Panda Cologne for Boys. This cologne is a good choice because it is a great way fro you to introduce that young man to the world of caring for his appearance. This is one lesson that this young boy will be able to carry with him throughout his entire life. Imagine being able to do something as small as just purchasing a boy his first cologne, yet knowing that you played a huge part in his growing up to be a man that cares about his appearance. When a young man begins to grow up he will really appreciate getting more grown up gifts. That’s one more reason why you should think about getting him his very own cologne and the Kung Fu Panda Cologne for Boys is the perfect choice. It has a fragrance that has been designed for young men that are wearing cologne for the very first time. It isn’t too strong and has a nice and youthful style of scent about it. Once you give a boy the gift of their very first cologne, you will be opening them up to a whole new world. Don’t be surprised if they begin wanting to take more time with their hair and clothing. Once they realize that they are young men that are now old enough to begin caring about such things as cologne, they will want to take more pride in other areas of their appearance. In this way, getting them their own bottle of Kung Fu Panda Cologne for Boys will be the gift that will keep on giving. This is also a unique gift that you can be almost positive won’t be duplicated.

World Class Advertising and Cross-Promotions.. DreamWorks has lined up a bunch of promotional partners for the movie, so let’s try to give each one their due. American Airlines is listed as being the movie’s “Official U.S. Airline” and has a “What is your Kung Fu Style?” quiz as well as the movie trailer on its AAPubs.com site. The film has also been heavily featured in the airline’s American Way magazine. Bank of America is listed as a promotional partner but there’s nothing about that deal on the bank’s website or the official Kung Fu Panda movie site so I’m not sure what exactly this entails. Wrigley partnered with the movie through their Hubba Bubba brand. The microsite for that partnership has a sweepstakes awarding kung fu lessons, a copy of the video game adaptation or packs of Hubba Bubba chewing gum, along with online promotional content like the movie trailer and some Kung Fu Panda wallpapers. Kelloggs is featuring Po the Panda on a bunch of its snack and breakfast food, as is Kid Cuisine, Crunch ‘n Munch, Trix Yogurt and Orville Redenbacher’s Popcorn. Energizer has also rolled out KFP-themed packaging, and their microsite had a sweepstakes you can enter and a cute little Flash game you can play of the Energizer Bunny doing some kung fu. Hewlett-Packard, a long time partner with DreamWorks, probably has the most extensive microsite and cross-promotion. Its site features a number of videos as well as games and activities to download. In fact there’s a whole activity pack you can download that includes photo cards, photo frames, etcetera, all of which of course is meant to reinforce the idea of printing when it comes to HP. Safeway will, for its part, give you two movie tickets when you buy $40 of participating products in its stores. Visa is also a sponsor, but the nature of its participation isn’t clear. DreamWorks also ran a charity auction on eBay, collecting bids on movie memorabilia with the proceeds going to Conservation International, which fits in nicely with the idea whole panda thing. Distant corporate cousin Nickelodeon is helping to promote the movie with a microsite all its own that features an alternate set of character descriptions, as well as downloads and games to play. DreamWorks/Kung Fu Panda sponsored an “Unlikely Heroes” feature on BeliefNet, something that fits well with the overall conceit that the panda in the story is an extremely unlikely hero. Advertisements for KFP also appeared on those pages, in addition to the “sponsored by” graphic at the bottom of the first page. MyYearBook.com also profiled the movie. Finally, there have been branded appearances and promotional locations in the teen-targeted virtual world Gaia Online.

don’t drop your empty cups and clear your clouded heads!
Uh oh!
This video no longer exists.
Now that you remember what the PSP looks like (wouldn’t want you to forget), here’s a rundown of what the buttons all do.

W A L K T H R O U G H

LEVEL 1: Po’s Dream. Run forward and talk to the rabbit to the left after the cart. He will ask you to help him find his family vases. Run up the stairs either to the right or left and get to the bridge that should be ahead of where you started. Punch through the boxes to collect the first family vase. Collect all of the coins here and continue ahead to the path you haven’t been to yet. You can talk to all the rabbits for general tips on what items do in the game world. You will enter a quick cutscene where you have to save a rabbit from some bad guys. This is the first battle sequence of the game. These bad guys are really simple since they are the first few to get you accustomed to the game. Just quickly hit them a couple of times until they all disappear in a big poof. Run into the village and you will enter another cutscene where your father will throw you a scroll that will talk about fighting combos. Some more bad guys will appear. Fight them off until you punch the last one through the gate. After then, break all of the stands and boxes for some hidden coins. Behind one of the stands in the back right corner will be another family vase. Enter the gate that you broke through and fight off a couple more bad guys. If you stick to the main path, you will run into a gate. You can’t open it but another family vase and some food will be here. Turn around and start running back to the first gate. You will see a path to the left, go in there and grab another family vase. Don’t break the boxes because there are three coins here that you need to jump on the boxes to reach. After you collect all of them, then you can break the boxes for some more coins. You will notice a break in the bushes with a skinny ledge you can walk across. You have to walk across this ledge and collect all of the coins here. Tilt the nunchuck in the direction you want Po to lean into so you won’t fall off. It doesn’t hurt to take your time here, it’s not a race so stop completely if you have to rebalance Po correctly. Roll down the hill and you will roll all the way past the gate. Turn around once you stop rolling and jump back onto the platform to reach the path you went through. Collect all the coins here and the two family vases. Break the boxes for some extra coins. Now go back to where you stopped rolling which is behind the locked gate.

Move forward for another cutscene where a bigger bad guy will appear. His attacks are quite a bit stronger but you should be able to easily block them. To block, just hit the Z button. His swings are very slow so when you see him wind up, just block. Attack him in between his attacks with your attacks. You will see some large boxes on the right side. Jump on those to reach the family vase there. Break all of the other boxes in this area before you fight the big bad guy that appears on the stairs to collect all of the items here. Once you fight all of the bad guys off, you will start to fight inside of the dojo. Start off by running to the back left corner and grab the family vase that is there. Fight off all of these bad guys. There is a staff you can use in as a weapon on the far right hand side of the room, press the - Button to pick it up and start to use it. After a while, you will get a cut scene where all of the bad guys will pile up on you and start attacking you, to get out of this, you have to rapidly shake your Wiimote up and down to get rid of them. After that you will enter a Panda Stumble which will cause you to roll to the next section of the stage. Try to collect as many coins as you can on this Panda Stumble. When you land, immediately start to fight off the bad guys. You will learn your first ability which is the Panda Quake. To do this ability, simply jump by pressing the A button and swing both controllers down. Fight off these bad guys while collecting the items around this room. There are two rare coins, two family vases, and a staff. Collect all of them before you fight all of the bad guys off. After you fight them off, you’ll have your first boss encounter, A Worthy Foe. This first boss fight is pretty simple. Run back to where the staff was and another one will spawn for you to use during this boss battle. Just hit him a few times. After one attack he will quickly attack back so just block with your Z button to block his attacks. There’s nothing special to this boss, just fight him off like any other bad guy you have fought against so far.

Start off this level by running to the right. Go behind the wagon for a rare coin. Go to the left of where you started and collect the coins you can reach. You will eventually talk to a rabbit that will ask you to free four other rabbits. Fight the four bad guys that are harassing the first rabbit to free him. He will hop in the ballista and then teach you how to use it. Use the ballista to break all of the large bags you can aim at. You can aim up and down as well to aim for higher bags. Climb the platforms of the bags you just broke. You can jump onto the wall from the first platform and grab some ledges. Jump to the highest one and shimmy to the left. Jump the gap of the platforms and grab the firework that is sitting there. There are some more ledges you can climb on to your right on the platform with the fireworks. Climb up to the top for another rare coin. Fight off the three bad guys that are hassling the second rabbit and use the ballista here. Break a few more bags open across the room here and then hop out when there are no bags left. Climb onto the platforms where the bags were that you just destroyed with the second ballista. Grab onto the ledges and shimmy along them to make it across the platforms. You will have to jump to the last one. Collect all of the coins on this short path and grab the two fireworks. Fall off the platform when you get behind the wall and fight off the bad guys here to free the third rabbit. Some more bad guys will appear after you free him so fight all of them off until they stop coming. Grab the firework on the bridge and you will fall through it to enter another cutscene. Fight off the bad guys that you see come after the rabbits in the cutscene. Collect the coins and jump over the barricade after you fight off the bad guys. After that you will enter the Juggernaut Testing Grounds. This is basically an obstacle course where you have to avoid all of the moving obstacles. Just wait for the obstacles to smash and then move out of the way, then start to run past it. This part really shouldn’t be that difficult to get through. Fight off the bad guys that are hassling the last rabbit. You will enter another cutscene with the rabbits thanking you.

Right after the cutscene, some more bad guys will appear. Fight all of them off before you hop in the ballista. Once they are all down and no more are appearing, hop in the ballista and blow up the bags of confetti on the platforms. When they are all blown up, jump onto those platforms and collect the coins and fireworks. You will have to avoid the next obstacles when you turn the corner of this house. Jump along the platforms and there will be a ledge when you reach the end of the path. Hop onto it and shimmy to the right. Fall down and grab another firecracker below one of the hammers. Make your way back to where you were when you fell off and shimmy all the way to the right to climb onto the roof. Make your way past the slicing blades quickly and grab another firework. Fall down to the right off the building for two more fireworks. Climb onto the platform to your left down here that appears to be a large gator head snapping. Just climb up and you will have to shake your Wiimote rapidly to break it so it won’t hurt you. You will enter another quick cutscene here. Fight off the boars and collect all of the fireworks in this room. Break all of the boxes to unveil some more fireworks. Once you are done collecting everything, run over to the chair and hit the - Button to enter a cutscene. Now you will enter the boss battle of this stage where you will fight The Juggernaut. This boss battle is actually pretty fun. Just avoid its attacks at first, don’t go behind it or it will swipe you with its tail. Once the target pops out of its chest, attack it. Now you have to pay attention, you have to quickly swing the Wiimote in the direction shown on the screen. Do it a couple times until you climb to the top of the Juggernauts head and slam its head. Just do this three times until you defeat this large monstrosity. Stay on this higher platform for the time being. There are three different types of dummies up here. Go to the left and the first is simple, just hit him a few times in any way you want. The next dummy will be on a string. These dummies are quick so you have to use quick attacks with the B Button. Keep circling this outer edge and kill the same two dummies you just killed. After that will be large, fatter dummies. Use strong attacks to kill them which you can do by shaking your Wiimote. Fall in the pit and destroy the last training dummy. Go through the door when it opens for the next stage of your training. You will have to destroy the first dummy in this room by using your Charge. To do this, you have to hold your Nunchuck upward and your Wiimote downward. Point them both forward to release to destroy this dummy. Do a Panda slam in the middle of the circle of dummies next. To do this, just jump and flick both controllers forward, kill off the rest of the dummies that survived. The next set of dummies, you will have to use a combo of fast attack, fast attack, and strong attack. So just hit B twice and swing the Wiimote forward for this combo. After that one, you have to juggle a dummy by flicking the Wiimote upwards. After you clear this room, Shifu will make you try to destroy thirty two dummies in two minutes. You shouldn’t try to collect the coins here while you are trying to accomplish this goal, just attack the dummies. You will get regular dummies and tough dummies. Just block the first attack of the tough dummies and then use tough attacks. When they are all in a circle, try using a panda quake to hurt several of them at once. You should finish with just a few seconds left and a rare coin will appear.

Move forward into the next room and Tigress will basically laugh at how weak and pitiful you are. It’s time to prove her wrong by beating her record. Immediately fall into the pit in front of you. Destroy the three quick dummies in front of you. Move further towards the other end of this room and destroy the tough dummy. Climb onto the ledge at the end of the pit and destroy the next tough dummy. Go right and around the little obstacle to kill another tough dummy. Climb across the tight rope to the right and destroy the last tough dummy. Collect the rest of the coins and continue to the next room of training. Next you will enter the Monkey’s room. Start off by going immediately to the left. Avoid the obstacles and jump on the trampoline at the end. Destroy the dummy at the top of the jump of the trampoline with quick attacks. Go back to the beginning and done the right path and do the same thing. Now bounce across the trampolines in the middle. On the last trampoline, bounce forward and grab onto a rope. Climb onto the rope and go right. Kill the tough dummy and go to the right along these platforms. Avoid the swinging objects and kill the next tough dummy. Go back to the rope and walk across it. Kill this tough dummy. Go to the left and avoid these swinging objects and kill the last tough dummy at the end of this platform. Head for the door to the next room. Now you will enter Viper’s room. Fall down into the pit and avoid all of the fire. Destroy all of the enemies down here including the ones on the platforms as you pass them. Destroy the large dummy at the end, it’s just a big version of a tough dummy so grab the staff to the left of him and use strong attacks until he is destroyed. Once you destroy him, climb the platform and go either left or right. Avoid the obstacles and there will be a sort of ladder made of ledges at the end of each path. Jump up it and make your way to the middle at the top. Turn around and jump across these small platforms. Walk across the tightrope while avoiding the moving objects and kill the two quick dummies after the tightrope. After you kill those two quick enemies, hop across the moving platforms to kill the last one. The first few waves are really easy. The first wave only has one boar that will run with a treasure to the back of this room. So head over there and stop him before he escapes. The next wave will just have two boars that attack you and that’s it for that wave. The third wave you will see debris falling from the ceiling of four pillars. That’s where they are breaking in, hit the dragons on those pillars to burn the boars to get rid of them. Attack two more bad guys in this wave and you will see a quick cut scene where they are breaking into the red room. Go back to the door of the entrance of the dojo. Head to the right and run down this hall. The hall to the red room has a long trail of coins so if you don’t see the coins, you’re heading down the wrong hall. You will see some bad guys in here, avoid them for now. Jump up the boxes and touch the ceiling doors to close them. You will notice a rare coin on top of some of these boxes so grab it. Once they are closed, fight off all the bad guys in this room. When the bad guys in here are gone, run back to the room you started in. OST: ‘Kung Fu Fighting’ by Rain Jung Ji Hoon 電影“功夫熊貓”主題曲 Lyrics: Latest Comments | Maybe it’s because I saw “Death Panda” over at GuroChan recently, but when I saw that screenshot up there, the first thing popped into my head was that Jack Black-voiced panda grabbing the alligator by it’s jaws, tearing it in half vertically, then scrubbing himself in the resulting shower of blood. And wouldn’t THAT be a nice change of pace from this year’s obligatory CG talking animal movie? “Oh look, kids! Jack Black Panda is about to fight that – OH MY GOD! Oh wait .. what’s he going to do to that monkey? He’s not going to hurt the – Oh dear lord! he’s f*cking the monkey!” Grabbing the attention of today’s busy consumers may be a snap, but retaining it can be quite a different story. Yet that is exactly what Wrigley’s Hubba Bubba is accomplishing with specially marked packs of Hubba Bubba leading to many instant-win prizes in a new Hubba Bubba promotion in conjunction with the release of Kung Fu Panda, an animated Dreamworks Studio film. Around the world, Wrigley has taken a leading role in the incorporation of variable data tear tape for its special promotions, and the results are noteworthy. Hubba Bubba is a brand of chewing gum originally produced by Wm. Wrigley Jr. Company in the U.S. in 1979 but more recently produced in countries around the world. The main gimmick used to promote the gum is that Hubba Bubba is less sticky than other brands of bubble gum, and so the Hubba Bubba promotion, titled “Ultimate Kung Fu Panda Adventure Sweepstakes” featured specially marked packages of Hubba Bubba products that incorporate Payne’s variable data tear tape. Go forward and you will see two paths of lily pads, take either as they both go to the same place. The one of the right will give you a tip about the lanterns. They will turn off when you pass them to help you remember where you have been. Jump to the next lily pad and you will see it split in three different directions. Go to the left and you will reach an island. Go left again for the first villager. Now go to the right path you haven’t gone to yet and follow this path to the end to the next trapped villager. Backtrack to the beginning where you saw the three paths of lily pads, take the right path now. Keep following these lily pads and avoid the crocs with the bombs. You will see one more split in the path up ahead, take the right path to free the third villager. Head back to the split and take the other path you didn’t take yet. This path of lily pads will lead you to the island in the middle. Fight off several crocs here and free the last villager on this island. There is only one side of the island that you can jump off of and land on lily pads, however you will see two paths. Take the left path and when this path splits head right. Keep moving forward and you will see the path split again. Go straight and double jump over the lily pads to reach the island with the rare coin. Make your way back to the main path and continue on your way. Now just follow any path to the boat with Shifu in it. Some paths have coins which you can see right away but it doesn’t really matter which path you take. Once you reach Shifu, you will hop in his boat and steer it like you would steer a Panda Stumble by rotating the nunchuck. Just try to aim for the biggest openings in between the rocks. Your boat’s health is on the bottom and if you hit too many rocks, you will sink. Once you reach the end of the river, you will complete this level. DreamWorks Animation

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

DreamWorks Animation SKG, Inc. (NASDAQ: DWA) is an American animation studio which primarily produce a series of commercially successful computer-animated films, including Shrek, Shark Tale, Madagascar, Over the Hedge, Bee Movie, Kung Fu Panda, Monsters vs. Aliens, How to Train Your Dragon, and Megamind. Although the studio also made traditionally animated films about serious subjects earlier, most of their computer-generated films and television series have now gained the studio a reputation for being focused on popular culture and satire[1], and have suffered from a critical stigma of being a “poor man’s Pixar”, although their most significant successes in recent years have had more universal themes and better critical reception. The studio was formed by the merger of the feature animation division of DreamWorks and Pacific Data Images (PDI). Originally formed under the banner of DreamWorks, it was spun off into a separate public company in 2004.

Films produced by DreamWorks Animation are currently distributed worldwide by Paramount Pictures, a subsidiary of Viacom, who acquired the DreamWorks live-action studio in February 2006, spinning it off again in 2008. DreamWorks Animation currently maintains two campuses: the original DreamWorks feature animation studio in Glendale, California and the PDI studio in Redwood City, California.

History [edit]

On October 12, 1993, DreamWorks SKG was formed and founded by a trio of entertainment players, director and producer Steven Spielberg, music executive David Geffen, and former Disney executive Jeffrey Katzenberg. DreamWorks signed a co-production deal with Pacific Data Images to form subsidiary PDI, LLC (PDI owned 60% of PDI, LLC while DreamWorks SKG owned 40%). Pacific Data Images was founded by Carl Rosendahl in 1980 with a small loan from his father. In 1982, he was joined by Richard Chuang and Glenn Entis, who wrote the foundation of the in-house computer animation software that was to be used for the next two decades. During the 1980s, PDI created many animated logos and commercials for television for companies like NBC and Sky Movies. They shifted into motion picture visual effects beginning in 1991 with a contribution to Terminator 2: Judgment Day. The new unit would produce computer-generated feature films beginning with Antz in 1998. In the same year DreamWorks SKG produced The Prince of Egypt, which used both CG technology and traditional animation techniques.

In 2000, DreamWorks SKG created a new business division, DreamWorks Animation, that would regularly produce both types of animated feature films. All four traditionally animated feature films were produced by the division’s Southern California branch. DreamWorks SKG acquired majority interest (90%) in PDI, reforming it into PDI/DreamWorks, the Northern California branch of its new business division. The business division separated from its parent in 2004, forming DreamWorks Animation SKG, Inc. and purchasing the remaining interest in PDI as well as its subsidiary PDI, LLC.

From 2004 to 2009, the studio was dedicated solely to producing computer-animated films in-house, and committed itself to produce 2 such films a year.

In 2005, DreamWorks Animation partnered with HP to introduce HP Halo Telepresence Solutions, technologies that allow people in different locations to communicate in a face-to-face environment in real time. DreamWorks Animation has used this technology in the production of several animated films including the Shrek films, Kung-Fu Panda and How to Train Your Dragon. [2]

DreamWorks Animation also had a partnership with Aardman Animations, a stop-motion animation company from Bristol, England. [3] This partnership had DreamWorks participating in the production of stop-motion films in Bristol, and also had Aardman participating in some of the CG films made in the US. This partnership ended after the release of Flushed Away in November 2006; the announcement was made before the film’s release, on October 3, citing “creative differences” as the reason. [4]
The logo is adapted from its parent studio's logo. The original logo (debuting with Shark Tale and ending with Monsters vs. Aliens) consisted of a boy fishing on the moon, against a backdrop of the daytime sky albeit with more colorful lettering. The soundtrack of this logo was originally an adaptation of the DreamWorks theme; however, following on the global success of Shrek in 2001, this became a shortened adaptation of True Love's First Kiss (the Love Theme from the Shrek soundtrack), composed by John Powell (itself adapted from “Hallelujah” by Leonard Cohen).

On March 03, 2007, DreamWorks Animation announced intention to release every future film in 3-D, starting in 2009.[5] On July 8, 2008, they have announced partnership with Intel to co-develop 3-D film-making technology InTru3D.[6] The first film produced with this technology was Monsters vs. Aliens.

In 2009, the studio made the list of Fortune Magazine's best 100 companies to work for, at number 47. Employees at DreamWorks get to enjoy breakfast and lunch for free, a perk not found at many other companies.[7]

On May 28, 2009, the studio announced its plans to release five feature films every two years, starting with three films in 2010.[8]

2010–present [edit]

In 2010, a new logo was introduced in which the boy on the moon waves away some clouds with his fishing pole as the DreamWorks letters come into position; this logo was first used on How to Train Your Dragon.

In 2010, the studio's most successful franchise Shrek, concluded with the fourth and final installment Shrek Forever After: The Final Chapter.
In 2010 DreamWorks Animation ranked number 6 on the Forbes 100 Best Companies to Work For list. It is praised by its employees for its openness and culture of collaboration. [9]

On June 4, 2010, DreamWorks Animation and Royal Caribbean announced a strategic alliance set to take place onboard Royal Caribbean cruise ships including Allure of the Seas. [10]

In June 2010, Dreamworks Animation created a new division, Moon Boy Animation, to premiere the TBS animated show, Neighbors from Hell.

Partnerships [edit]

DreamWorks Animation has an on-going partnership with HP, and the studio exclusively uses HP workstations and servers. In 2005, AMD signed a 3-year deal to provide processors to the studio. This relationship ended in 2008, and Dreamworks announced that they will use Intel processors for future productions. [11]

Board of directors [edit]

The following executives [12] are on the DreamWorks Animation SKG, Inc. Board of Directors:

• Roger Enrico, Chairman of DreamWorks Animation SKG Inc.
• Jeffrey Katzenberg, Chief Executive Officer of DreamWorks Animation SKG, Inc./Co-Founder of DreamWorks.

Additionally, DreamWorks Animation holds the underlying US rights to the DiC animated series Alienators: Evolution Continues, co-produced with the parent DreamWorks studio and Columbia TriStar Television (now Sony Pictures Television, who holds international rights). The series was a spin-off of the 2001 DreamWorks/Columbia film Evolution. The same also applies to Neighbors From Hell, since the show is co-produced by Dreamworks Animation (under their newly established Moon Boy Animation division), an independent company known as Bento Box Entertainment, and 20th Century Fox Television.

Promo Code for Free Month of Online Play with Kung Fu Panda World

If your kids loved Kung Fu Panda, then they’re absolutely going to love this great new browser-based MMO based on the movie. Dreamworks spent over two years building and perfecting this awesome little computer game, designed for kids eight to twelve years old. This game offers in-depth character creation, and a plethora of child-friendly mini-games and side quests. Your kids can design their characters based on one of three styles of Kung Fu, such as Panda, Monkey, or Tiger. Their character lives and trains in a dormitory, at first, but they can earn their way to better housing and a bigger training hall, and as they advance, they can even take on their own students! As your kids explore the game world, they can meet characters from the movie.
As they wander around, a warm/cold style meter on the screen directs them towards arcade-style games, or play tag and skip stones across a river! Best of all, they can do it for free, for a whole month, with this promocode, “sneakpeek”. Head to the site and register your kids to play, and use this code, and they can enjoy a free month of this cute, and fun, game. Grand Prize Trip choices include: Po, Zoo Adventure in San Diego; Monkey, Monkey Jungle Adventure in Miami; Tigress, Tropical Rainforest Adventure in Hawaii; Viper, Grand Canyon/Horseback Adventure in Arizona; Shifu, Zoo/Chinatown Adventure in San Francisco; Tai Lung, Winter Adventure in Alaska. #15 bibo on 2010/04/06 20:28 Prince Ghidorah says: Words cannot describe how excited I am for this game. That being said, seeing as pandas sleep about seventeen hours a day and eat bamboo

It was a cross promotion featuring ‘Kung Fu Panda’. Our job, this time around, was to build on the fun flair of Kung Fu Panda while still retaining the mood of the established Monte commercials. We realized the spot from start to finish: set/character modeling, shading, sfx, lighting, rendering and compositing, as well as up to 8 language versions. This 3d character and environment has been used in several spots over the years. Client: DenverMP Filmprod. Film Production: Hamburgfilm. Kung Fu Panda World, a browser-based world that has been in development for two-years, will monetize via long-term and one-day subscriptions. The project, targeted for kids ages 8-12, will have a high level of parental controls, says USA Today. Says former EA exec John Batter, now co-president of production for feature animation, Panda “provided a really excellent framework for a virtual world; all the elements were there. We want the kids to take

It lets parents oversee and manage their child’s account. Parents can choose how much time (including daily access) their children can have and parents can see their child’s progress on the site. I also liked that it’s browser-based, so nothing is downloaded or installed. Also, no personal information is solicited or shared and chat is filtered and monitored. The site closes at 9pm every night. This post was written by: nancy – who has written 192 posts on Mommies With Style. Sat, Apr 3, 2010 | 1 Comments For This Post. Po had been dreaming that he was a famous kung fu warrior, fighting dangerous assassins and protecting his village from harm. It was his favorite dream. He tried to use one of those kung fu moves to kick himself to his feet, but his belly got in the way and he rolled back, still flat on his back. “Po!” cried his father from downstairs. “What are you doing up there?” “Nothing, Dad!” Po answered. He climbed to his feed, immediately jumping into another kung fu stance. “Monkey! Mantis! Crane!” he said, calling out the names of the Furious Five, the most famous kung fu masters in all of China. “Tigress! Viper!” “Po!” his father shouted one more time. “Let’s go! You’ll be late for work!” “Okay!” Po called back. Still pretending to be a kung fu master, he grabbed a ninja star from the floor and threw it at the wall with furious might. But instead of piercing the wall with brute force, the star bounced right off. He chucking another star even harder ... and the same thing happened. His prowess in his dream was not carrying through to his real life. Finally, Po headed downstairs, struggling to fit through the narrow steps that led to the kitchen of his family’s noodle shop. “Morning,” Po greeted his father. The panda didn’t really look like his dad. For one thing, Po didn’t have feathers, and for another, his dad was a goose! “Let’s go!” his father scolded. “The cabbage needs to be chopped; the carrots need to be peeled; and table three is waiting for their order – Secret Ingredient Soup.” “Sorry, Dad,” Po mumbled. Po’s father sighed. “Sorry doesn’t make the noodles, son,” he said. “What were you doing up there anyway? There was so much noise.” “Oh, nothing,” Po answered. “I was having this crazy dream...” “You were?” His father looked up from the vegetables he was chopping. “What were you dreaming about?” he asked. “What was I dreaming about?” Po echoed. Po watched him unroll the famous scroll. Then he watched as Tai Lung’s face fell. “IT’S NOTHING!” the snow leopard bellowed. “The scroll says nothing!” “You don’t get it, do you?” Po said. He struggled to his feet. “There is no secret ingredient. There’s no magic and no miracles. It’s just me.” “Rrraaaahhh!” Tai Lung snarled and then lunged at Po. Po fought back, striking Tai Lung. Desperately, Tai Lung attacked Po’s nerve points, trying to paralyze him, but the panda’s flab and thick fur got in the way. Po just giggled. “Stop tickling me!” he cried. At that, Tai Lung delivered a double-fisted punch to Po’s belly. The blow rippled through the panda. His arms swung back and then forward, striking Tai Lung, who crashed back into a building. Po looked down at his hands, amazed by his own strength. Tai Lung rose from the rubble and lunged toward Po, but Po stopped him with the ultimate weapon – his huge iron belly! The battered snow leopard snarled at Po. “You can’t defeat me! You’re just a big, fat panda!” SHWING! Po grabbed Tai Lung’s finger, and the snow leopard’s eyes went wide with surprise. “I’m not a big, fat panda,” Po informed him. “I’m the big, fat panda!” “The Wuxi Finger Hold!” Tai Lung declared. “Oh, you know this hold?” asked Po. “You’re bluffing!” Tai Lung said. “Shifu never taught you the Wuxi Finger Hold!” “You’re right,” Po said, shaking his head. “I figured it out on my own.” He flexed his pinkie. THE AMD OPTERON PROCESSOR FOR MULTIPROCESSOR SERVERS

REPRESENTING AMD’S ENTRY INTO 64-BIT COMPUTING, OPTERON COMBINES THE BACKWARDS COMPATIBILITY OF THE X86-64 ARCHITECTURE WITH A DDR MEMORY CONTROLLER AND HYPERTRANSPORT LINKS TO DELIVER SERVER-CLASS PERFORMANCE. THESE FEATURES ALSO MAKE OPTERON A FLEXIBLE, MODULAR, AND EASILY CONNECTABLE COMPONENT FOR VARIOUS MULTIPROCESSOR CONFIGURATIONS.

Advanced Micro Devices’ Opteron processor is a 64-bit, x86-based microprocessor with an on-chip double-data-rate (DDR) memory controller and three HyperTransport links for glueless multiprocessing. AMD based Opteron on the x86-64 architecture, AMD’s backward-compatible extension of the industry standard x86 architecture. Thus, Opteron provides seamless, high-performance support for both the existing 32-bit x86 code base and new 64-bit software. Its core is an out-of-order, superscalar processor supported by large on-chip level-1 (L1) and level-2 (L2) caches. Figure 1 shows a block diagram. A key feature is the on-chip, integrated DDR memory controller, which leads to low memory latency and provides high-performance support to integer, floating-point, and multimedia instructions. The HyperTransport links let Opteron connect to neighboring Opteron processors and other HyperTransport devices without additional support chips.

The need for a 64-bit architecture arises from applications — such as databases, computer-aided design (CAD) tools, scientific/engineering problems, and high-performance servers — that address large amounts of virtual and physical memory. For example, the Hammer design project, which includes Opteron, ran most of its design simulations on a compute farm of 3,000 Athlons running Linux. However, for some large problem sets, our CAD tools required greater than 4 Gbytes of memory and had to run on... far more expensive platforms that supported larger addresses. The Hammer project could have benefited from the existence of low-cost 64-bit computing. However, there exists a huge software code base built around the legacy 32-bit x86 instruction set. Many x86 workstation and server users now face the dilemma of how to transition to 64-bit systems and yet maintain compatibility with their existing code base. The AMD x86-64 architecture adds 64-bit addressing and expands register resources to support higher performance for recompiled 64-bit programs. At the same time, it also supports legacy 32-bit applications and operating systems without modification or recompilation. It thus supports both the vast body of existing software as well as new 64-bit software. The AMD x86-64 architecture supports 64-bit virtual and 52-bit physical addresses, although a given implementation might support less. The Opteron, for example, supports 48-bit virtual and 40-bit physical addresses. The x86-64 architecture extends all x86 integer arithmetic and logical integer instructions to 64 bits, including 64 x 64-bit multiply with a 128-bit result. The x86-64 architecture doubles the number of integer general-purpose registers (GPRs) and streaming SIMD extension (SSE) registers from 8 to 16 of each. It also extends the GPRs from 32 to 64 bits. The 64-bit GPR extensions overlay the existing 32-bit registers in the same way as they had in the x86 architecture’s previous transition, from 16 to 32 bits.

Figure 2 depicts the programmer’s view of the x86-64 registers, showing the legacy x86 registers and the x86-64 register extensions. Programs address the new registers via a new instruction prefix byte called REX (register extension). The extension to the x86 register set is straightforward and much needed. Current x86 software is highly optimized to work within the small number of legacy registers. Adding eight more registers satisfied the register allocation needs of more than 80 percent of functions appearing in typical application code, as Figure 3 shows.

Figure 4 is a block diagram of the Opteron core, an aggressive, out-of-order, three-way superscalar processor. It reorders as many as 72 micro-ops, and fetches and decodes three x86-64 instructions each cycle from the instruction cache. Like its predecessor, the AMD Athlon,\(^1\) Opteron turns variable-length x86-64 instructions into fixed-length micro-ops and dispatches them to two independent schedulers: one for integer, and one for floating-point and multimedia (MMX, 3Dnow, SSE, and SSE 2) operations. In addition, it sends load and store micro-ops to the load/store unit. The schedulers and the load/store unit can dispatch 11 micro-ops each cycle to the following execution resources: three integer execution units, three address generation units, three floating point and multimedia units, and two loads/stores to the data cache.

Opteron’s pipeline, shown in figure 5, is long enough for high frequency and short enough for good IPC (instructions per cycle). This pipeline is fully integrated from instruction fetch through DRAM access. It takes seven cycles for fetch and decode; excellent branch prediction covers this latency. The execute pipeline is typically 12 stages for integer and 17 stages for floating-point. The data cache access occurs in stage 11 for loads; the result returns to the execution units in stage 12.

In case of an L1 cache miss, the pipeline accesses the L2 cache and (in parallel) a request goes to the system request queue. The pipeline cancels the system request on an L2 cache hit. The memory controller schedules the request to DRAM.

The stages in the DRAM pipeline run at the same frequency as the core. Once data is returned from DRAM, it takes several stages to route data across the chip to the L1 cache and to perform error code correction. The processor forwards both the L2 cache and system data, critical-word first, to the waiting load while updating the L1 cache.

CACHES

Opteron has separate L1 data and instruction caches, each 64 Kbytes. They are two-way set-associative, linearly indexed, and physically tagged with a cache line size of 64 bytes. We banked them for speed with each way consisting of eight 4-Kbyte banks. Backing these L1 caches is a large 1-Mbyte L2 cache, whose data is mutually exclusive with respect to the data in the L1 caches. The L2 cache is 16-way set-associative and uses a pseudo-least-recently-used (LRU) replacement.
policy, grouping two ways into a sector and managing the sectors via an LRU criterion. This mechanism uses only half the number of LRU bits of a traditional LRU scheme, with similar performance. We used the standard MOESI (modified, owner, exclusive, shared, invalid) protocol for cache coherence.

The instruction and data caches each have independent L1 and L2 translation look-aside buffers (TLB). The L1 TLB is fully associative and stores thirty-two 4-Kbyte page translations and eight 2-Mbyte/4-Mbyte page translations. The L2 TLB is four-way set-associative with 512 4-Kbyte entries. In a classical x86 TLB scheme, a change to the page directory base flushes the TLB. Opteron has a hardware flush filter that blocks unnecessary TLB flushes and flushes the TLBs only after it detects a modification of a paging data structure. Filtering TLB flushes can be a significant advantage in multiprocessor workloads because it lets multiple processes share the TLB.

INSTRUCTION FETCH AND DECODE

The instruction fetch unit, with the help of branch prediction, attempts to supply 16 instruction bytes each cycle to the scan/align unit, which scans this data and aligns it on instruction boundaries. This task is complicated because x86 instructions can vary in length from 1 to 15 bytes. To simplify the subsequent scan process, the instruction fetch unit marks instruction boundaries as it writes the line into the instruction cache.

The processor decodes variable-length instructions into internal fixed-length micro-ops using either the hardware decoders (called “fastpath” decoders) or the microcode engine. Fastpath decoders can issue as many as three x86 instructions per cycle. Most common x86 instructions that decode to one or two micro-ops per instruction use the fastpath decoders. On the other hand, microcode can issue only one x86 instruction per cycle. For better performance, Opteron has more fastpath decoding resources than its predecessor, Athlon. For example, packed SSE instructions were microcoded in Athlon, but they are fastpath in Opteron. This change resulted in 8 percent fewer microcoded instructions for SPECint benchmarks and 28 percent fewer for SPECfp.
BRANCH PREDICTION

AMD significantly improved Opteron’s branch prediction over that of Athlon. As Figure 6 shows, Opteron uses a combination of branch prediction schemes. The branch selector array selects between static prediction and the history table.

The global history table uses 2-bit saturating up/down counters. The branch target array holds branch target addresses and has backup from a 2-cycle branch target address calculator to accelerate address calculations. The return-address stack optimizes CALL/RETURN pairs by storing the return address of each CALL and supplying it for use by the corresponding RETURN instruction. The mispredicted branch penalty is 11 cycles. When a line is evicted from the instruction cache, it saves the branch prediction information and the end bits in the L2 cache error correction code field, because parity protection is sufficient for read-only instruction data.

Thus, the fetch unit does not have to recreate branch history information when it brings a line back into the instruction cache from the L2 cache. This unique and simple trick improved Opteron’s branch prediction accuracy on various benchmarks by 5 to 10 percent over the Athlon.

INTEGER AND FLOATING-POINT EXECUTION UNITS

The decoders dispatch three micro-ops each cycle to the instruction control unit, which has a 72-entry reorder buffer and controls the retirement of all instructions. In parallel, the decoders issue micro-ops to the integer reservation stations and the floating-point scheduler. In turn, these units issue micro-ops to their respective execution units once the instructions’ operands are available. Opteron has three units for each of the following functions: integer execution, address generation, and floating-point execution.

The integer units have a full 64-bit data path, and the majority of the micro-ops (32- and 64-bit add, subtract, rotate, shift, logical, and so on) are single cycle.

The hardware multiplier takes 3 cycles for a 32-bit multiply and 5 cycles for a 64-bit multiply.

Thus, the fetch unit does not have to recreate branch history information when it brings a line back into the instruction cache from the L2 cache. This unique and simple trick improved Opteron’s branch prediction accuracy on various benchmarks by 5 to 10 percent over the Athlon.

The floating-point data path is full 80-bit extended precision. All floating-point units are fully pipelined with a throughput of one instruction per cycle for most operations. Simple operations like compare and absolute as well as most MMX operations take 2 cycles. MMX multiply and sum-of-average instructions take 3 cycles. Single- and double-precision add and multiply instructions take 4 cycles, and the latency of divide and square root instructions depends on precision. The divide takes 16, 20, or 24 cycles for single, double, or extended-precision data; the square root takes either 19, 27, or 35 cycles.

LOAD STORE UNIT

In addition to the integer and floating-point units, the decoders issue load/store micro-ops to the load/store unit, which manages load and store accesses to the data cache and system memory. Each cycle, two 64-bit loads or stores can access the data cache as long as they are to different banks. Load-to-use latency is 3 cycles. Loads require an extra cycle if they have a nonzero segment base, are misaligned, or create bank conflicts. Although loads can return results to the execution units out of order, stores cannot commit data until they retire. Stores that have not yet committed forward their data to dependent loads. A hardware prefetcher recognizes a pattern of cache misses to consecutive lines (ascending or descending) and prefetches the next cache line into the L2 cache. The L2 cache can handle 10 outstanding requests for cache miss, state change, and TLB miss – eight from the data cache and two from the instruction cache.

MEMORY CONTROLLER AND HYPERTRANSPORT

The on-chip memory controller provides a dual-channel 128-bit wide interface to a 333-MHz DDR memory composed of PC2700 dual, in-line memory modules (DIMMs). The controller’s peak memory bandwidth is 5.3 Gbytes/s. It supports eight registered or unbuffered DIMMs for a memory capacity of 16 Gbytes using 2-Gbyte DIMMs. It is on a separate clock grid, but runs at the same frequency as the core. Thus, memory latency scales down with frequency improvements in the processor core. In low-power modes, the processor can turn off the core clock while keeping the memory controller’s clock running to permit access to memory by graphics and other devices. Historically, the memory controller has been relegated to a separate chip called the Northbridge, as illustrated in figures 7a and 7b. The integrated memory controller significantly reduces Opteron’s memory latency and improves performance by 20 to 25 percent over Athlon.

Other on-chip Northbridge functionality includes the processing of I/O direct-mapped access, memory-mapped I/O, peripheral component interconnect (PCI) configuration requests, transaction ordering, and cache coherence. A broadcast cache coherence protocol maintains memory coherence by avoiding the serialization delay of directory-based systems and allowing the snooping of the processor caches concurrently with DRAM access. The snoop throughput scales with processor frequency and HyperTransport link speed.

Among Opteron’s unique features are the three integrated HyperTransport links. Each link is 16 bits wide (3.2 Gbytes/s per direction) and is configurable as either coherent HyperTransport (cHT) or noncoherent HyperTransport (HT). The cHT protocol is for connecting processors, and the simpler HT protocol is for attaching I/O. The point-to-point HyperTransport links support flexible, configurable, and scalable I/O topologies using chains of I/O “tunnel” and “cave” devices. The programming model for the configuration space is identical to that for the PCI bus specification, version 2.2. The HyperTransport links are transparent to any OS that supports PCI.

RELIABILITY FEATURES

Reliability is very important in enterprise-class machines, and Opteron has robust reliability features. Error code correction (ECC) or parity checking protects all large arrays. The L1 data cache, L2 cache, and DRAM are ECC protected. Eight ECC check bits are stored for each 64 bits of data, allowing the correction of single-bit errors and the detection of double-bit errors (SECDED, which stands for single error correction double error detection). DRAM has support for chipkill ECC, which allows for the correction of 4-bit errors in the same nibble. The processor accomplishes this by using 16 ECC check bits on 128 bits of data. Thus, chipkill ECC can correct errors affecting an entire x4 data width DRAM chip. In addition, the L1 data cache, L2 cache tags, and DRAM implement hardware scrubbers that steal idle cycles and clean up single-bit ECC errors. This clean-up is particularly important for the L1 data cache, which detects but does not correct errors on the fly. Parity checking protects the instruction cache data, and L1 and L2 TLBs. ECC and parity-checking errors are reported via a machine check architecture that reports failures with sufficient information to diagnose the error. The highly integrated Opteron design results in lower overall chip count, which also improves system reliability.

PROCESSOR CORE PERFORMANCE

An Opteron processor operating at 2.0 GHz using registered 333-MHz DDR memory has estimated scores of 1,202 for SPECint2000 and 1,170 for SPECfp2000.

GLUELESS MULTIPROCESSING

Here, we illustrate the multiprocessing design space for Opteron system architectures and present microbenchmark latency and bandwidth results for shared-memory accesses from processors and I/O nodes. These microbenchmark results show that coherent memory bandwidth scales. Memory latencies are such that the programmer has a near-flat view of the memory. Figure 7 shows the architectures of traditional two- and four-way x86 servers, in which all the processors in the system share a single, external memory controller. In contrast, an integrated memory controller provides a 128-bit 333-MHz DDR interface at each node in an Opteron system. A multiprocessor configuration can use memory on a node contiguously or interleave pages from one node's memory with those from other nodes in the system. Three on-chip HyperTransport links enable streaming server I/O and high-bandwidth, glueless two-, four-, and eight-way multiprocessor systems, as shown in Figures 7c, 7d, and 7e.

MULTIPROCESSOR PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS

To evaluate the performance of our multiprocessor systems, we ran the following register-transfer-level microbenchmarks, measuring latencies and bandwidths on one, two, and four processor systems:

* LOCAL MEMORY ACCESS In this microbenchmark, each processor generates a series of read-memory transactions to addresses in local memory only. We measured the isolated read latency as well as bandwidth under saturated load. Figure 8a shows this communication pattern.

* xfire memory access. In the Xfire (cross-fire) microbenchmark, all processors read data from all nodes in an interleaved manner, such that the generated system load corresponds to all-to-all communication. We measured the isolated read latency as well as bandwidth under saturated load; Figure 8b shows this communication pattern.

The number of DIMMs and the memory capacity double when we double the number of processors. There are three I/O HyperTransport links for one processor and four I/O HyperTransport links for two- and four-processor configurations, each link providing 6.4 Gbytes/s of bandwidth. The processors are gluelessly interconnected with coherent HT links for the efficient topologies shown in Figures 7c, 7d, and 7e. For topologies 7c and 7d, the average distance is less than or equal to 1 hop between nodes, whereas for 7e, it is 1.75 hops.

Table 1 summarizes these results. The memory-read bandwidth in a four-processor system accessing data in local memory is up to 15.59 Gbytes/s; bandwidth is 11.23 Gbytes/s when the system interleaves memory across all the nodes. When you bisect a network (cut it into two parts with an equal number of processors) such that the number of links cut is a minimum, it is called a min cut. The bandwidth across a min cut is the bisection bandwidth, a measure of available bandwidth for interprocessor communications.

The graph in Figure 9 shows that the read-memory bandwidth scales from one- to four-processor systems. The average unloaded memory latency with open DRAM pages for one-, two-, and four-processor systems is less than 50 ns, less than 70 ns, and less than 110 ns. The latency difference between remote and local memory in a given system is comparable to the difference between a DRAM page hit and a DRAM page conflict. The latency under load increases slowly because of the availability of excess interconnect bandwidth. Latency shrinks quickly with increasing CPU clock speed and HyperTransport link speed. The aggregate memory-read bandwidths for one-, two-, and four-processor systems are 5.3 Gbytes/s, 7 Gbytes/s, and 11.23 Gbytes/s, where the data resides uniformly across the nodes.
SCALING BEYOND EIGHT-WAY MULTIPROCESSING

We designed Opteron for use as a building block for highly scalable and reliable enterprise servers. It is designed to scale beyond eight ways by combining the processor with an external HyperTransport switch, as illustrated in Figure 10. The average distance between any pair of nodes in this topology is 2.7 hops, and the maximum distance between any pair of nodes (the network diameter) is 5 hops. The switch contains a snoop filter, which tracks the state of cached lines in the system. Requests access the snoop filter to locate the latest copy of a line in the system. The switch can also contain a large cache to hold data, which is remote to a quad. Figure 10 shows the quad configuration, a group of four processors, each with an independent I/O and local memory. The four processors share two sets of remote caches and snoop filters; they connect to the rest of the system through two coherent switches (SW0 and SW1) and six HyperTransport links.

Both the snoop filter and the remote cache reduce traffic among switches and help band-width scale with processor count.

The integrated DDR memory controller, glueless multiprocessing capability, high-bandwidth HyperTransport links, 64-bit computing, and high-reliability features combined with a core that provides leading-edge performance makes the AMD Opteron a great processor for server applications.

We plan future microarchitectural improvements such as support for next-generation DDR technology, enhancements to the cache and memory subsystem, and support for larger linear and physical addresses. In addition to servers, the core architecture described here serves as a foundation for desktops, laptops, and workstations.

AMD targets Opteron processors for fabrication in a 130-nm silicon-on-insulator process with nine layers of copper interconnect, a process available at AMD’s fab in Dresden, Germany. In the future, AMD plans to move to a 90-nm process. Although the design team has focused on eliminating unnecessary power dissipation without sacrificing performance by extensive use of clock gating, we plan further work to lower power requirements. i Not all customers or software applications will benefit from the use of a dual core processor.

ii An AMD64-enabled workstation should provide leading performance for many 32-bit applications. Although not all 32-bit applications may run as normal when you decide to change to a 64-bit operating system, many will, providing excellent flexibility. AMD64 requires a computer system with a processor, chipset, BIOS, operating system, device drivers and applications enabled for a 64-bit processor will not operate (including 32-bit operation) without a 64-bit enabled BIOS. Performance will vary depending on your hardware and software configurations. It is advised you pre-test your applications with Microsoft’s 64-bit 120 day free trial before you order AMD64 (www.microsoft.com/windowsxp/64bit/evaluation/trial.mspx).

iii Hardware RAID is not supported on Linux systems. The Linux kernel, with built-in software RAID, provides excellent functionality and performance. It is a good alternative to hardware-based RAID. Please visit http://h20000.www2.hp.com/bc/docs/support/SupportManual/c00060684/c00060684.pdf for RAID capabilities with Linux.

At the NAB Show today, AMD (NYSE:AMD) and DreamWorks Animation SKG Inc. (DWA.N) announced a three-year strategic alliance naming AMD the Preferred Processor Provider for DreamWorks Animation and enabling the company to experience significant advantages in their computer-generated ("CG") filmmaking process.

As the Preferred Processor Provider for DreamWorks Animation, AMD will provide the AMD Opteron™ processor with Direct Connect Architecture for DreamWorks Animation’s next-generation enterprise servers, workstations, render farm nodes, enterprise desktops and enterprise laptops. The new agreement with DreamWorks Animation also includes marketing opportunities for AMD to utilize characters from DreamWorks Animation motion pictures as well as work with DreamWorks Animation to promote upcoming film and home video releases.

“The benefits of working with AMD have already had a substantial impact on our business, which is why selecting them as our preferred processor provider and building a strong partnership makes sense,” said Jeffrey Katzenberg, co-founder of DreamWorks SKG and CEO, DreamWorks Animation SKG. “AMD technology will bring new levels of detail and new capabilities to our animated feature films. We’re also very excited about the future of AMD’s technology and products.”

“Innovators like DreamWorks Animation are discovering that AMD helps them break free of the limitations of today’s computing solutions,” said Hector Ruiz, AMD chairman of the board, president and CEO. “They choose AMD because of our clear leadership in both 64-bit computing and dual-core technology. AMD64 technology-based solutions will enable DreamWorks Animation’s artists to expand their creative capabilities and continually push the boundaries of today’s state-of-the-art digital animation process.” The AMD Opteron processor provides breakthrough performance that enables artists to create images never before realized, and as a result, create some of the most technologically advanced CG animation movies.
For example, DreamWorks Animation’s May 27, 2005 release Madagascar will include the largest crowd of furry characters in a CG film to date, with more than 900 moving creatures in a single scene. Prior to this movie, animal characters were often heralded as one of “the holy grails” of animation because of the complexity of animating fur in the CG world. As a result, utilizing furry characters in movies was limited to a handful per scene due to the complexity of the geometry. The faster rendering times and increased memory bandwidth made possible by the AMD Opteron processor have allowed DreamWorks Animation to meet this enormous challenge, and became an important creative component of Madagascar.

The AMD Opteron processor has already made significant contributions at DreamWorks Animation. This includes providing new levels of computation power enabling in the production of its hit motion picture Shark Tale, the contribution to new animated innovations in the upcoming film Madagascar, and the overall benefits to the operations of the company’s complex data centers.

AMD and HP have jointly created systems for animation studios and plan to continue this successful collaboration with DreamWorks Animation. In addition to expanding its AMD and HP-based render farms, DreamWorks Animation is also utilizing the AMD Opteron processor-based HP xw9300 Workstation, a system that is enabled for the upcoming AMD64 dual core technology. The use of these workstations builds on the unique technology partnership HP and DreamWorks Animation formed in 2001 to explore new, creative frontiers and redefine the art of filmmaking.

Rendering is the process of completing one scene by adding detailed texture, lighting, shading, etc. The significant performance improvement delivered by the AMD Opteron processor can dramatically reduce render times, allowing artists to see the finished product much more quickly, further explore their creativity and maintain their creative rhythm and tempo. Faster rendering drives productivity and reduces the creative hurdles to animation, ultimately delivering unique and more visually stunning animation.
